

Network to help traders alert each other about offences

CRIME-FIGHTING RADIO FOR SHOPS

By Jamie Brassington

A NEW radio network is being set up for Halesowen businesses to report crime quickly.

The initiative is being rolled out as part of a clampdown on crime which has seen businesses targeted.

Traders are encouraged to buy radios and use the network so they can tell each other if thieves are active.

Business leaders have welcomed the move, vowing it 'is one of many steps' they are taking to tackle crime.

Halesowen is currently seeing a crime wave, including burglaries and car thefts in local neighbourhoods.

Halesowen Business Improvement District (BID), which is behind the move, believes the measure will allow businesses to alert each other quickly about crimes taking place, such as if a thief has stolen items from a shop.

A spokesman said: "The Halesowen BID has acquired, in partnership with the Cornbow Shopping Centre, a live radio frequency of which traders in Halesowen are able to purchase a radio and communicate with each other in order to tackle crime."

Police

"The BID has had reports of a number of thefts in the area and is working hard to find solutions in handling these issues."

"The BID is still in conversation with West Midlands Police and will continue to discuss options for tackling the issues raised by traders."

"Information on how traders will be able to make use of the frequency will be distributed in the coming weeks."

Eve O'Connor, centre manager of the Cornbow Shopping Centre, said: "Working in partnership with the BID, our aim is to increase security in Halesowen."

"The radio frequency offers traders the opportunity to share information and work together in tackling the levels of crime that we're facing in the town."

"We have a strong community of businesses in the town and together we're even stronger."

Wayne Edwards, chairman of the Halesowen BID, said: "An open radio frequency for the town is just one of the many approaches that we're taking to tackle the rising levels of crime in the town."

"We will continue to take vital steps to making Halesowen a safer environment for residents, traders and visitors."

BOXING NIGHT RAISES £3,000 IN MEMORY OF BEN

Benjamin Morse's mother and sister, Ruth and Gay, with Benjamin's friend Simon Mcevoy, centre, and friends at Station Hotel, Castle Hill, Dudley

MORE than 400 people attended a boxing night in memory of a hit-and-run victim Benjamin Morse.

Around £3,000 was raised with 10 amateur boxers taking part in the contest for the 36-year-old Arsenal fan.

Mr Morse, who was also known to his friends as Benjamin Morse the gunner, was struck by a Vauxhall Corsa in Beach Street, Halesowen, in the early hours of May 1 having just been dropped off by a taxi with a group of friends. A trial is currently ongoing into his death with Nidal Alboraki, aged 21, accepting having been the driver of the Corsa but denying murder.

The charity night was held last Friday at The Station Hotel in Dudley and saw Mr Morse's close friend Si Mcevoy fight in his honour. A 12-week intensive training course was undertaken by the participants in the big night.

Mr Mcevoy won the first round, with Mr Morse's mother, Gay, telling him, 'you did my son proud and in my eyes you were always the winner'. Stephanie Pugh, a family friend who helped to organise the special night, said: "Ben was dedicated to his football, Arsenal and his boxing and this was the least we could do in his memory."

"We love him so much and keeping his memory alive surrounding Gay, and Ruth, his sister, is keeping them strong - we stay strong as a family with them."

Stephanie said proceeds will go to charity, adding: "I know some of the money will go to a bench in Halesowen in memory of Ben."

Council tax rise for second year

COUNCIL bosses revealed their plan to raise council tax by three per cent - but said residents will be asked if they would agree to a four or five per cent hike.

Dudley Council's cabinet is proposing a 2.99 per cent increase, which includes a one per cent precept for adult social care.

But before a decision is made residents will be asked to take part in a consultation, which will be launched next month.

Bosses say that despite the proposed increase, borough residents will continue to pay one of the lowest rates of council tax in the country.

Councillor Patrick Harley, leader of Dudley Council, said: "We recognise these are still very tough times but it's important we remain focused on continuing to provide quality frontline services to our residents."

TRANSPORT

Buses diverted as main road closes

BUS services will be diverted while a main road in Halesowen is closed for two weeks.

Nimmings Road will be shut between Long Lane and Clement Road from October 30 to November 13 while an electricity sub-station is replaced.

It means that National Express buses 129 and 231 will be diverted.

Service 129 will be diverted via Station Road and Long Lane will not be served. Service 231 will be diverted via Long Lane and Station Road but Nimmings Road will not be served.

GYMNASTICS

Kristian inducted into Hall of Fame

GYMNAST Kristian Thomas has been inducted into the British Gymnastics Hall of Fame.

It comes just days after the 28-year-old announced his retirement, ending a career that saw him win an Olympic medal and take multiple honours at World, European and Commonwealth level.

Kristian, who trained at Earls Gymnastics Club, in Halesowen, from the age of five, said: "I think now is the right time, having achieved everything I've ever dreamt of in the sport."

School of the Year: The Federation of Abbey Infant & Abbey Junior Schools in Sandwell, All Saints Primary School in Sandwell and Lightwoods Primary School in Sandwell.

£1 million clean-up bill as fly-tipping increases

FLY-TIPPING is on the increase with councils spending more than £1 million clearing and disposing of waste in just one year.

Dudley borough alone had 1,069 fly-tipping incidents in 2016/17 – up from 824 in the previous 12 months.

Figures released by the Government show there were 16,458 incidents of waste dumped across the Black Country councils, Stafford, Lichfield, Cannock and the Wyre Forest.

The statistics from the financial year 2016/17 are up from 15,623 the year before.

Dudley Council was forced to spend £63,295 in the past year to clear up fly-tipping – nearly £15,000 more than the £49,000 that was spent in 2015/16.

Council leader Patrick Harley said: "From a council point of view fly-tipping is extremely frustrating.

"The £63,000 we spent clearing it up in 2016/17 could have been much better spent on frontline services for communities that need them. However, one thing I would say is most of the people who do this are incredibly stupid.

Shocking

"They pay people to take away their rubbish in good faith. But then the rubbish will just be dumped anywhere. Normally the person who's paid to have their rubbish taken away will have left something with their name on.

"So if we can't take the person who actually dumped it to court then we will go after the person who paid for their rubbish to be removed. We will come after those people."

South Staffordshire MP Gavin Williamson said: "The idea that £1 million of public money has been spent clearing up environmental vandalism this year is absolutely shocking.

"It goes to show how far behind the courts are. They need to be levelling much higher penalties and fines on these people to act as a deterrent. Courts can level fines of up to £50,000 on people

Dudley Council spent £63,295 clearing fly-tipping court fly-tipping, but more often than not they only get fined £1,000 or £1,500 at most.

"It's about time the courts got serious about dealing with these individuals who are destroying our countryside, towns and villages."

Of the incidents last year, 209 white goods were dumped in Dudley, 54 tyres were ditched in Wolverhampton and eight animal carcasses were left out in Walsall.

Among the fly-tippers caught locally is Jamie Humpage – the first man jailed for dumping rubbish in Walsall.

The 28-year-old, of Booth Close in Walsall, admitted eight offences of dumping rubbish in Copice Lane, Brownhills, and Back Lane, Aldridge.

He was caught on camera dumping mattresses, wardrobes and other rubbish.

Jamie Humpage throws a mattress out of a van

Councillor Chris Jones, portfolio holder for clean and green at Walsall Council, said: "We vigorously pursue prosecutions when we are able to secure the evidence to bring it before a judge.

"The public play an important part in helping us to do this. If we are alerted quickly, if evidence is captured and filmed it helps us build a stronger case."

And in Wolverhampton, earlier this month letters inside black bags dumped at Withy Road Industrial Estate were used to find Abid Khaliq, who paid a man £80 to take away his household rubbish.

The 43-year-old, of Highland Road, Dudley, failed to check the white van man was an authorised person to transfer waste. He received a £250 fine.

Anger after free parking reduced to just an hour

DUDLEY council's free parking offer has been branded a 'badly thought out publicity stunt' – after the time limit was reduced from two hours to one.

The council brought in two hours of free parking in Dudley, Sedgley, Brierley Hill and Halesowen earlier this year.

But at the start of the month it reduced the time to one hour and charged £1.40 for the second hour.

Halesowen North councillor Hilary Bills said: "I want to know if the cabinet member knew the results of the parking trial before making these changes. And what a slap in the face to those loyal shoppers who were returning to Halesowen to shop for two hours.

"What we need is a table of charges that makes sense and not some badly thought out publicity stunt."

One shopper was angered after receiving a fine for overstaying in the town. Helen Betts-Patel, from Greenhill Road, said: "I felt pretty ripped off. The parking went from two hours to one and all that changed on the notices on the railings going into town was the number."

Councillor Karen Shakespeare, cabinet member for environmental services, said: "We're committed to providing free parking across the borough long term to help our local town centres thrive, but want to ensure we do this in the best way."

Changes at top for hospital trust

A hospital trust has announced the appointment of a new operational medical director.

Julian Hobbs has stepped into the senior role at the Dudley Group NHS Hospitals Trust, which runs Russells Hall Hospital.

He was previously deputy medical director at the Royal Liverpool NHS Trust.

Mr Hobbs also serves as deputy medical director for the Cheshire and Merseyside Medical Team at NHS England, where he leads on mortality.

Meanwhile, bosses at the Dudley Group NHS Hospitals Trust have also announced the appointment of Michael Woods.

Mr Woods will be taking over as the interim chief operating officer.

Lights improved

A SCHEME to upgrade traffic lights on busy roads in the Dudley borough is being stepped up. Signals are being improved along Duncan Edwards Way and surrounding roads to reduce congestion. The work is being carried out this week to coincide with the half-term holiday.

Cradley firm Kee Safety snapped up for £280m

A BLACK Country firm supplying safety products for people working around the world has been bought in a £280 million deal.

Kee Safety, which employs around 480 people, has been sold by its owners, investment groups Dunedin and LDC, to Bahrain-based Investcorp.

Established in the UK in 1934 and based on the Cradley Business Park, in Cradley Heath, the firm is considered the leading global provider of equipment to protect people working at height from the risk of falling.

Its products include fall prevention equipment, roof edge protection, barrier and guardrail systems and safe access solutions. Kee also has established operations in 10 countries, including the US and China.

Chris Milburn, chairman, said: "International expansion and an active acquisition strategy have formed key tenets of our growth story over recent years.

"We believe that Investcorp's proven track record, global presence and network will be extremely valuable in this regard."

Investcorp says it plans to support Kee's international growth strategy.

Jose Pfeifer, principal in Investcorp's European Corporate Investment group, said: "We believe that the company is well-positioned to solidify its leading position and gain a greater market share in a sizeable industry."

Knives and alcohol are seized at court

HUNDREDS of knives, tools and sharp implements have been confiscated from people entering courts in the Black Country and Staffordshire in the past year.

Security staff also seized replica firearms, alcoholic drinks, cameras and recording devices, the HM Courts and Tribunals Service statistics show.

In total 83 knives were taken from people going through the doors of Dudley, Walsall, Cannock and Kidderminster magistrates' courts, Wolverhampton's courts and Stafford Crown.

Also, handed over to staff at Stafford and Walsall, were two replica firearms. The figures show that 219 'sharps' such as needles and scissors were confiscated. Security staff also made sure 368 alcoholic drinks didn't enter the building along with 90 cameras and 49 recording devices.

Halesowen and Rowley Regis MP James Morris has campaigned for tougher sentencing for knife-related crimes. He said: "I will be keeping a close eye on the Government's new Serious Violence Strategy to be published in the new year and work to see a reduction of knives on our streets."

Murder suspect 'feared for his safety'

Benjamin Morse

A MURDER suspect accused of driving his car into a man before fleeing the scene has claimed he feared for his safety.

Nidal Alboraiqi told jurors Benjamin Morse and his friends had hurled racial abuse at him moments before the hit-and-run in Halesowen.

The 21-year-old accepted he was driving but denies murdering Mr Morse, who suffered fatal injuries after 'catapulting' onto the windscreen of the car.

At Wolverhampton Crown Court, he said: "I thought they wanted trouble - I was scared. I did not drive at any of these people. I was not driving fast and I was not driving in a dangerous manner. I was panicking and I was confused."

Prosecutors allege the victim was deliberately struck by Alboraiqi's Vauxhall Corsa in Beach Street in the early hours of May 1.

The unemployed defendant told the court he was taking three friends home when he spotted men surrounding his car, with one shouting 'oi, wait there'.

He recalled seeing two men in front of his Corsa and another two behind the vehicle, but believed the group wanted to speak to one of his passengers. The defendant, of Foxhunt Road, Halesowen, told jurors he drove forward before reversing into Beach Street.

Giving evidence at his trial this week, Alboraiqi said: "I was driving up the street when the windscreen smashed. I had no recollection of seeing anyone in the road or stepping into the road. I did not know what had happened...I panicked and I drove off. I wasn't driving dangerously."

Alboraiqi, who denies murder and seeking to pervert the course of justice, abandoned the car and attempted to dispose of it after the crash, prosecutors allege. His 19-year-old brother Ahmed Alboraiqi, of the same address, denies seeking to pervert the course of justice after allegedly disposing of his brother's mobile phone. The trial continues.

Leisure centre plan is revealed by council boss

A NEW leisure centre will be built in the heart of Dudley and centres in Stourbridge and Halesowen revamped as part of a £22 million investment.

Dudley's current leisure centre in Wellington Road will be knocked down and the site sold off to allow for the building of a new facility on Flood Street car park 'fit for the 21st century'.

Uncertainty over the future of leisure centres in Stourbridge and Halesowen has now vanished as the Conservative group that controls Dudley Council outlined a commitment to health facilities in its first draft budget since taking control in May.

Council tax will rise by at least three per cent from April, while 35 jobs will be cut across the authority, it was announced yesterday. Further cuts will have to be made to save another £5.6m by 2021, leader Patrick Harley said.

Positive

But he insisted it was the most positive budget set out by the council in years.

Leisure centres had been on course to be cut in Dudley, as proposals were revealed by the previous Labour administration to axe either Stourbridge or Halesowen's centre. But the plan sparked uproar and was later scrapped.

Councillor Harley said: "It will end this saga once and for all. The people of Dudley, Stourbridge and Halesowen deserve to be put out of their misery on leisure centres. We have made a decision to build a new leisure centre to serve Dudley North and Dudley South, it will be near Dudley southern bypass, and carry out a backlog of repairs at Stourbridge and Halesowen."

Regeneration boss Ian Kettle said: "Over the last 12 months there has been a lot of discussion around the future of our leisure centres and it's clear from what people have said there remains a huge demand for three leisure centres in the borough."

Fountain's 150-year history celebrated

Thousands watched the opening ceremony of the fountain in 1867 by the Countess of Dudley

EXACTLY 150 years to the minute it was originally unveiled, a presentation ceremony was held to celebrate an iconic landmark.

An illuminated scroll and 18-inch commemorative bronze disc were presented to the Mayor of Dudley by chairman of the Victorian Society Birmingham and West Midlands Group Stephen Hartland.

It was done at midday on Tuesday October 17 - the exact time and date the original fountain was unveiled 150 years ago to the town by the Earl of Dudley. Mayor of Dudley, Councillor Dave Tyler, said: "We were delighted to receive the award in 2016, and think that the idea to formally present it to the town 150 years to the day of the fountain's initial unveiling is a wonderful one.

"The Victorian Society does such an important job in promoting and preserving our shared architectural heritage across the country and it's an honour to be chosen. I look forward to receiving the award, on behalf of the town and appreciate the recognition this represents for our work in restoring and revitalising our wonderful town centre."

It comes as the recently-restored Dudley Fountain was awarded the Victorian Society's Birmingham and West Midlands Conservation Award in 2016 for the sensitive and skilled restoration of the fountain.

The first unveiling saw thousands turn out with mounted soldiers on horseback surrounding the fountain.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Parking bays for shops look likely

PLANS for parking bays to be introduced in a congested retail area are moving one step closer.

A total of 12 bays are proposed for Shell Corner, near Halesowen, in a bid to boost footfall for shops.

Councillor Stuart Henley said that proposals will be distributed for consultation with ward members and the police within the next couple of months, followed by a full public consultation.

The bays would form part of the proposed Traffic Regulation Order programme for 2017-18. They would be placed near shops in Malt Mill Lane and outside stores in Long Lane.

Digital directory to help local trade

A DIGITAL directory for businesses in Halesowen could be launched as part of ambitious plans to boost trade.

The Halesowen Business Improvement District is drawing up plans to create a new network for traders.

BID manager Barry Wheeler said: "You would be surprised how many people aren't aware what is in the town. We are looking to establish a business network in the town so traders can trade better."

The BID was launched earlier this year, after traders backed the move following a ballot and approval was given by council bosses.

The BID has a five-year contract and business bosses are looking at long-term plans to improve the town.

Anger as youth workers face axe

SEVENTEEN support staff are facing the prospect of losing their jobs after Dudley Council entered discussions with them over a shake-up of youth services.

Workers currently help provide support classes for children and young people across the borough with a range of disabilities.

Evening classes at Gornal Youth Club, Rockies in Gornal and The Source in Wordsley, which are attended by around 100 children, are among those affected.

Dudley North MP Ian Austin is against the move, saying: "Plans to bring in voluntary organisations to run local youth clubs in Dudley puts vulnerable young people at risk."

Chiefs confirm wages boost

SANDWELL council chiefs have now confirmed that all its staff will be paid the Living Wage as a minimum from April 2018. The move was confirmed by the council's cabinet last Wednesday and will boost hundreds of council workers and school staff who will see their pay packets increase by between six and eight per cent.

Cleaners, learning support assistants, playworkers, nursery staff and school crossing wardens are among the 150 council employees and 650 schools staff who will benefit.

A Unison spokesman said: "The council should be commended for taking this important step."

Brexit help for region's bosses

BUSINESS bosses have launched an 18-month campaign to ensure the Black Country is ready to move forward after Brexit.

A launch event took place last week at the Grand Station in Wolverhampton. Black Country Chamber of Commerce's initiative is called 'Making the Future', offering businesses across the region to take part in activities to learn more about how they can be better equipped moving forward.

Golden couple tune in for role

BLACK Country cycling legend Hugh Porter and his wife, former Olympic gold medalist winner Anita Lonsbrough, have become patrons of a hospital radio station.

Crime wave sparks a new row on funding

Report by Rob Gollidge

A SURGE in crime across the Black Country and Staffordshire has sparked a row over police funding.

Recorded offences rose dramatically by 14 per cent in the West Midlands and West Mercia, and 13 per cent in Staffordshire.

And concerns have been raised after significant rises in house burglaries, robberies, theft, and car crime were revealed of up to 42 per cent.

West Midlands Labour Police and Crime Commissioner David Jamieson blamed government funding cuts, saying the loss of 2,000 officers was 'taking its toll'.

He said: "The rise in crime in the West Midlands and across the country is a major concern. These figures are further evidence the Government needs to change course on police funding."

"West Midlands Police has lost £145 million from central government since 2010.

Toll

"Despite being rated as outstandingly efficient by the independent inspectors the fact we have 2,000 fewer officers fighting crime is starting to take its toll.

"Despite the challenges faced, we are determined to get on with the job of keeping people in the West Midlands safe."

Today he revealed plans to hike average tax bills by £5 to fund a pay rise worth two per cent for 3,000 non-officer staff next year worth £1m - defying the one per cent public pay cap.

On the planned tax rise, Conservative Dudley South MP Mike Wood said: "There will be a lot of residents questioning why, when the commissioner is making claims of destitution, increases in tax are not being spent on getting more officers on the street and more people tackling crime to keep everyone safe."

Dramatic increases in crime has prompted more questions over the funding of police forces

In the West Midlands, house burglaries have risen by 33 per cent, robberies by 23 per cent, and overall violent crime by 13 per cent.

While in Staffordshire, house burglaries have risen by 27 per cent, robberies by 25 per cent, and violence by 14 per cent.

In West Mercia, house burglaries have risen by an astonishing 42 per cent. The figures were recorded between June 2016 and June this year.

West Midlands Deputy Chief Constable Louisa Rolfe said: "We understand people's concerns around violent crime and the effect it can have on communities."

"While it makes up a very small proportion of overall crime, we appreciate the disproportionate impact it has on people's quality of life and feelings of safety. We are working tirelessly to understand the reasons why young people carry knives. We work closely with schools and parents to educate, as we continue to bring offenders to justice."

Shop given £2,500 bill over failings on hygiene

A SHOPKEEPER has been ordered to pay more than £2,500 by a court after inspectors discovered a series of health and hygiene failings.

Environmental health officers from Dudley Council found ready-to-eat coriander being stored directly below a hanging carcass of meat at Zayd Mini Market in St Johns Road, Kates Hill. The routine inspection at the premises took place in September last year.

Owner Zayd Younas, aged 22, pleaded guilty to seven offences under food hygiene and safety regulations at Wolverhampton Magistrates' Court on October 5. They included failing to keep the food premises clean and in good repair and condition, refuse stores not kept in good order and failing to fly-proof an external door.

Younas also admitted to having no food hygiene training and failing to comply with two improvement notices requiring repairs to walls and a ceiling.

The court was told that by having coriander stored directly below the meat it was exposed to an unacceptable risk of contamination.

Younas was fined £1,500 and ordered to pay costs of £1,068, as well as a victim surcharge of £30. Health and wellbeing chief, Councillor Peter Miller cabinet member responsible for health and wellbeing, said: "The conditions found at this premises were most unsatisfactory, which led to the prosecution."

"We much prefer to work with businesses to secure compliance with the law, but we will not hesitate to take legal action against the minority of food businesses proprietors who fail to meet their legal responsibilities and put the health of the public at risk."

"I would urge consumers to check out hygiene ratings online."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Head's thanks for extra PE funding

A HEADTEACHER has praised Government funding to boost PE, saying it has benefited her school in Dudley. Every primary school is set to have its Primary PE and School Sport Premium funding doubled by Government with money to be received this month.

Glynne Primary acting headteacher Tracey Powell said: "Having the funding really helps to raise the profile of sport. I feel our school offers children a wide range of opportunities within the curriculum and outside. We celebrate children's sporting talents and those children who show particular flair are also further challenged."

Body in wardrobe suspect in court

A MAN charged with murdering a 17-year-old girl whose body was found in a clingfilm-wrapped wardrobe has appeared in court for a preliminary hearing.

Ashley Foster, aged 24, of no fixed address, denies murdering Megan Bills. Her body was found at a flat in Highgate Road, Brierley Hill. A trial date is set for January 8.

Earlier this year Foster admitted preventing the lawful and decent burial of Miss Bills between April 15 and May 5.

Arson suspected at derelict pub

A blaze swept through a derelict pub in a suspected arson attack.

Eight firefighters tackled the incident at the former Metro Bar pub in Trindle Road last week. Officials say they believe the eyesore building was 'deliberately' set on fire, which broke out around 4pm on October 19.

£6m primary school to open doors next year

A £6 MILLION new primary school for 400 pupils will be built on the former Coseley School site with plans to open next year.

The former secondary controversially shut its doors this summer due to dwindling numbers with pupils shifted out to neighbouring schools.

Now it has emerged that the empty 1960s building will be transformed into Coseley Technology Primary.

Council bosses say that the free primary school in Henne Drive will open to 60 reception and Year 1 pupils in September 2018, under proposals agreed by the DfE.

The existing school buildings will be leased to the Shireland Collegiate Academy Trust for two years while building work begins on the site.

Development

The trust also took over Thorns Community College in Quarry Bank this year. It comes as plans for its first phase of development are going to Dudley Council's cabinet this month.

Councillor Anne Millward, cabinet member for children's services, said: "This is an exciting new venture for Coseley, which will make the most of the existing school site, while providing a much-needed primary school for the area."

"We have already established a strong, productive working relationship with the Shireland's team when they took over the running of Thorns Community College in 2017 and we look forward to working with them on this ambitious new project."

Officials say they are 'continuing discussions' with a range of partners about the next phase of development of the site, which would provide new secondary school places as the number of secondary age students in the borough starts to increase. The new free school will be part of the Shireland Collegiate Academy Trust.

Missing man's phone switched on

Matthew Gill's phone was switched on last Thursday

The family of missing man Matthew Gill today said they had been given hope after activity from his mobile phone was detected.

Almost three weeks after Matthew Gill, from Stourbridge, was last seen there have been no confirmed sightings.

But police are now appealing for information after it has been discovered the 43-year-old's mobile phone was switched on last Thursday, October 19.

The Samsung Galaxy S5 mini, complete with a Rocky Balboa phone cover, was switched on somewhere in the Stourton area of Staffordshire and was left on for several hours - though no calls were made or received.

Cousin Louise Flanagan, 40, said: "I'm hoping that it's him to be honest but it's swings and roundabouts. I've just been having a conversation with my other half saying 'is it him or has somebody found a phone'. I'm hoping it is Matt but at the moment there's nothing too definite. We need to appeal to people. If anyone has the phone, can they please hand it in."

Police have asked anyone who has any information about the phone to contact them as a matter of urgency.

Detective Sergeant Andy Padmore, from the force's locate team, said: "Matthew has been missing nearly three weeks and we are really concerned as there has still been no contact with his family and friends and this is completely out of character for him. I need to speak to anyone with any information about his phone."

Matthew is described as white, 5ft 10ins tall, of medium build and would have had short cropped hair when he went missing. It's believed he was wearing a blue Superdry t-shirt as shown in the photograph of him. Anyone with information is urged to call the Locate team on 01902 649 150.

Asbestos is removed at building used by charities

ASBESTOS is being removed from a building occupied by three charities in Stourbridge.

Dudley Council is undertaking asbestos removal works from Mary Stevens Centre in Stourbridge. The authority is spending around £40,000 on the work.

The building is currently occupied by Mary Stevens Hospice, Beacon Centre for the Blind and Dudley MIND.

Age Concern formerly occupied the majority of the ground floor, but they vacated the centre in September.

The building, formerly known as the Mary Stevens Maternity Home, is located behind the current Mary Stevens Hospice building, which is currently undergoing a £3 million upgrade.

The asbestos work was revealed in a council report that is seeking to grant new leases to the charities that would see them pay costs towards maintenance of the building.

It was previously proposed that the rent would be charged at a market rate, but councillors on the committee have decided to charge a 'peppercorn' rent - meaning a very low or nominal fee. A council report said: "It is proposed that leases are put in place with the occupants so that the rights and responsibilities of all parties are clarified."

Restaurant on way

A TAKEAWAY will be turned into a restaurant in Dudley. The building in King Street will be converted and seven parking spaces added after a change of use application was approved on October 13.

Four-bed house, and you call that poor!

DON'T you just love it when people intent on trying to pursue an agenda are so out of touch that they achieve the exact opposite?

Take the new Channel 5 documentary series, Rich House, Poor House. The aim was pretty unambiguous. Take some of the most affluent members of society, and have them swap lives with some of the poorest, highlighting the vast gulf in how people live.

Except that the "poor family" in last week's edition lived in a four-bedroom house, had £170 left over each week, and best of all, had Sky television.

Is that the best they could find? Either the research team haven't done a terribly good job, or this country is a lot better off than we all realised.

THIS Met Office practice of giving names to every bit of bad weather really isn't working, is it? America gets Hurricane Ophelia. We get Storm Brian. Just doesn't have the same ring to it, does it?

HOW sad to see two businesses in Wolverhampton city centre close their doors because of the never-ending roadworks around the Midland Metro tramline. It has echoes of how, a couple of years ago, the E Marsh furniture store, one of the nicest shops in the city, moved out following a highly questionable pedestrianisation scheme.

If the tramlines are worn, I suppose the operators have no choice but to replace them. But it does pose more questions about the benefits of the tram system. At the moment, it is planned to extend the line from Wednesbury to Brierley Hill. Which, if I were unkind, I might feel inclined to brand as Low Speed 2.

Imagine the chaos and congestion that work is going to cause, as mile upon mile of the Black Country's already creaking road network is dug up. All to create a transport system marginally quicker than a bus.

Yes it will connect the Black Country to the rail network, and it is a tragic waste that the mothballed train line between Walsall and Stourbridge has been lying idle for half a century.

But at the expense of sounding controversial, instead of linking the Black Country to the rail network, why not make it part of it? Just leave the railway line where it is, and put some trains on it. No need to dig the roads up, no need for a network of new power cables, and best of all, it would be twice as quick.

Trains on railway lines, cars on roads. It's a tried and tested formula. And it could catch on.

Claim that "negative stereotypes" put women off

Peter Fiennes, author of new book, explains that oaks can live to be 1,000

Nigella Lawson – revelation now that she can cook the perfect poached egg

CHRIS Packham – claims that Asperger's syndrome made him a recluse

They're firefighters – by any name

LONDON'S Fire Commissioner, Dany Cotton, says "negative stereotypes" are putting women off joining the fire service. She declares: "One single thing that would help bring more women into the service? Stop saying firemen." Ms Cotton believes the inclusive word "firefighter" would be more helpful. Reality check, please. The truth is that every media organisation has been dutifully using "firefighter" for the past 20 years and yet female recruitment is still low. I suspect women are put off not by the wrong language but by the brigade's own rules – the physical tests demanded of all recruits. Consider this typical casualty-evacuation test: "Candidates in full PPE (personal protection equipment) will be required to drag a 55kg casualty walking backwards (guided by an assessor) around a 30-metre course." How many young women could attempt that? The problem is not sexism but biology. And if all firefighters were suddenly rebranded "firewomen," young men would still queue up to join and women would still stay away in droves.

"IT'S a long retirement." Peter Fiennes, author of a new book on trees, explaining that oaks can live to be 1,000 but produce most acorns when aged 50-150.

THE big news of the week was the revelation that Nigella Lawson can cook the perfect poached egg, having been tutored in the art by a French chef. I won't bore you with the process; life is far too short. And I smiled at John Humphry's gruff reaction on Today (Radio 4). He pointed out that anyone can soft-boil an egg and scoop the contents on to toast. Voilà – instant poached egg.

FOLLOWING my recent item on detectorists,

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

a reader reports an exciting day on the urban fringe. Her metal detector gave a sudden strong signal and the digging began. She dug with her spade. Her friend dug with his spade. After several minutes they uncovered their find. It was a spade.

HOW green are the greenies? Researchers at Cambridge examined the lifestyle of conservation scientists and discovered that most of them had normal-sized carbon footprints and flew an average of nine times a year. The researchers concluded: "there was little correlation between the extent of environmental knowledge and environmentally-friendly behaviour." Which reinforces something I have suspected for ages, that when someone is banging on about saving the planet, you can often find harmless amusement by asking: "How many times did you fly last year?"

CHRIS Packham has Asperger's syndrome, a form of autism. In Chris Packham: Asperger's and Me (BBC 2) he explained how it made him a recluse, utterly fixated on animals. He avoids social company with humans and was unable to attend parties or even go to his own step-daughter's graduation. I cannot be the only viewer who had some difficulty squaring this Chris Packham with the star of Chris Packham's Wild Night Out, the stage show he takes to venues around the country. Thousands of us have seen Packham cheerfully addressing huge audiences, confidently taking questions and signing books while chatting with strangers. The fact that he would not wish his own condition to be cured suggests that Packham's form of Asperger's is mild – and far milder than some of the troubled Asperger's sufferers he met in this programme. The programme has been hailed by the critics as courageous, challenging and stunning, but did it actually tell us much about Asperger's?

IS anyone else surprised that, while the weather forecasters queued up to explain why the sky had turned orange a few days ago, no-one warned us in advance that it was going to happen? Not so much forecasting as afcasting.

THE official report on the sinking of HMS Sheffield in the 1982 Falklands War, released this week, is a sorry tale of unpreparedness. But hindsight is always crystal-clear and, as any old warrior will tell you, it requires a huge mental leap to switch from peace to war, and to comprehend that complete strangers are trying to kill you. One officer in the Falklands described seeing an Argentine Skyhawk dropping its bombs on British troops. His first thought was: "My God, don't they realise how dangerous that is?"

AFTER the recent gripping item on buying guttering parts online, regular eBay purchasers will know what comes next. Sure enough, the emails arrived demanding to know exactly how fit-for-purpose are the fixers, joints, bends and the rest, followed by an invitation to write a review on each of the 10 different items. The last thing I was asked to review on eBay was a tub of fire cement. For pity's sake, how rhapsodic can you wax about a 68mm black PVC down-pipe?

TALKING POINT

Mobiles in toilets, that is taking the pee

SO, there I am, in Sainsbury's toilets, minding my own business, when I hear a voice behind me: "Hello...hello...hello..."

Very disconcerting, a social situation which seems to be becoming more part of the norm these days. Of course it turns out the person speaking is on his mobile phone. Well us blokes only need one hand to erm, you know. And no, I don't think he had the decency to wash his hands after his time at the urinal.

For the average bewildered middle aged person, such as myself, walking down the street is increasingly fraught with, at the very least, perturbation and even possible danger.

Perturbation – because of the amount of people holding highly-animated conversations with themselves, or at least it seems so until you spot the earphone/headset linked to whatever device they're using.

Danger – thanks to the fact that if they're not actually talking, 50 per cent of pedestrians these days have their head down engrossed in text messaging. YouTube, you name it, and are not actually concentrating on where they are going, or who they are just about to bump into.

Going past bus stops is hilarious these days. Lines of people heads down, earphones in, not aware of anything outside of their own sensory-deprived bubble. If I was a bus driver, I'd probably take it personally that none of them actually look up anymore to see when the bus is arriving, and drive straight past.

The mobile phone has seeped into the general populous's consciousness so much these days that even TV programme-makers have had to include it as a necessary dramatic tool. After all, it's now a means for secret revelations. That little buzz in the pocket and it's so difficult to ignore, so writers have jumped on this.

But the most ridiculous sight involving the dreaded mobile has to be my wife and I enjoying a pint outside in the sunshine at a local hostelry. Another couple arrived, on bicycles, and we were impressed, as they were probably slightly older than us. They got their drinks and proceeded to sit one in front of the other, facing the same way, like they were on some invisible train, and started playing with their mobile phones. Not a word was uttered. It was bizarre, but a sad indictment of how things are in today's modern world.

We will, as a race, surely eventually evolve into something which caters more easily for texting, receiving calls, and maybe in years to come it will lead to the eradication of speech altogether. Mind you, with some people, that can only be a good thing!

Labour and their latest 'trump' card

HEY! This bloke must be worth listening to. He's a KCB and a QC...not to mention a Bachelor of Civil Law from Oxford.

Labour seem to think they will always have a trump card. Here they say is a man of integrity, a man who you'd turn to if you're in a tight corner over your human rights.

Who is this paragon; this epitome of all that is British, this saviour of the nation I hear you cry? I speak of course of Sir Kier Starmer. In the event of a volcano erupting on Sedgley Beacon, Labour would come to power and take over Brexit negotiations.

Cavendish House – a real shame

HAS an opportunity been missed with Cavendish House? It has been empty now for many years and not fully occupied since the Inland Revenue moved out, now we hear it is to be demolished and a further shopping centre is planned even though there are empty units in West Bromwich, Wolverhampton and even Merry Hill.

Online shopping is forcing cut backs by many stores and the centres are becoming places to walk around and meet up for coffee and snacks rather than spending much money, so why chance yet another shopping centre? There is and always will be demand for homes and Cavendish House could have been converted into flats ideal for singles or for student accommodation.

The internal walls could have easily been altered to change from offices to flats. It will not happen now but I feel it is a shame that we seem to have wasted the chance of doing some good with Cavendish House.

RON GWILLIAMS
Brierley Hill

How you ask will he succeed where the might of the Tories is failing? Well it's in the delivery. Watch him on TV. The man is almost tearful as he beseeches us all to recognise that without going on our hands and knees, those giants in Europe will not even throw a crumb of sustenance our way.

Listening to him this morning on the Today programme, I too was in tears....at the devastating thought of him ever getting within 100 miles of the negotiating table.

ALAN M ETHERIDGE

Money all EU is after

EU only ever wanted our money. Jean Claude Juncker's outburst that 'We Europeans have to be grateful for so many things Britain has brought to Europe during the war, before the war and after the war, but now they have to pay', should be enough now to silence even the hardest remainian.

But still we keep hearing the old chestnut of 'what happened to the 350 million to the NHS on the big red bus?' Simple answer to this is – we are still in the EU and therefore still paying.

We are still paying in around 10 billion pounds per year for our EU gym membership which is around 192 million per week or put another way the big red bus should have said, 384 million a fortnight can go to the NHS when we finally leave the EU.

Clarity on why B52s are still in service

AFTER reading John Gregory's letter regarding the B52 I feel I must point out a few things. The Vulcan was retired from service due to the Royal Navy taking over the nuclear deterrent while the Victor was turned into refuelling tankers. The Vulcan was taken off the scrap heap to bomb the Falklands in the Black Buck raids using eleven Victors for each Vulcan.

The reason B52's are still flying is because the USAF have so many that they are flown on a rotation. I doubt if any have anywhere near the amount of air miles XH 558 has.

While on active service in the 60s its state-of-the-art electronic counter measures made it virtually unstoppable. During the Skyshield exercises in the USA in 59, 60 and 61 Vulcans flew through US air defences above B52s undetected to reach all their targets while at operational altitudes they could outmanoeuvre any fighter of the day.

Singer Neil a real Diamond

WHAT a fantastic performer Neil Diamond is! 76 years old and he could certainly show many younger singers a thing or two.

At the concert at Birmingham Arena on October 13 he was on stage for over two hours with no support act and to say he rocked the place is an understatement! He had us all on our feet singing and clapping along, I think there was no doubt that the years have not diminished the talent of this incredible entertainer.

A brilliant evening from a brilliant performer.

'Squalid' bedsits owned by millionaire are shut

A 'squalid' rundown property owned by a millionaire rogue landlord has been shut by police after complaints of anti-social behaviour and crime.

Latif Rehman was ordered to pay more than £340,000 by the courts earlier this month after illegally converting several houses in Dudley into bedsits, ignoring council notices to undo the work.

A judge said the 58-year-old, who earns £150,000 a year from rents, knew that he was breaching planning regulations.

Now West Midlands Police has secured a closure order against one of Rehman's premises in Wolverhampton Street, Dudley.

Officers moved in following residents' concerns about anti-social behaviour and crime involving tenants.

Dudley Council began investigating Rehman, of Harborne, Birmingham, in 2015 after he converted four homes - including the address in Wolverhampton Road - into cramped bedsits without planning permission.

Enforcement notices were served on Rehman in relation to two adjoining properties in Cole Street, one in Northfield Road, Netherton, and a fourth - the house in Wolverhampton Road, Wall Heath. But in each case he ignored the notice and continued to rent them out.

Rehman pocketed a total of £278,000 in tenants' housing benefits from Dudley Council. The two Cole Street houses had each been turned into five flats and the other two both into six.

Wolverhampton Crown Court heard that the council had 'bent over backwards' to allow him the time to comply with the enforcement notices, but instead Rehman used the time to obtain more rent.

He was ordered to pay Dudley Council compensation of £278,028, fined a total of £40,000 and ordered to pay £25,898 prosecution costs.

Hospice work on target

Group chief executive Stevan Jackson checks progress at the building for Mary Stevens Hospice in Stourbridge

VITAL work to expand a day care centre so a charity can look after more terminally ill patients is on track - as the new-build building rises into the sky.

Mary Stevens Hospice is extending its Stourbridge facility as part of a £3 million project to expand its care facilities.

Charity bosses expect to move back into the building by August. Their day care service and offices have transferred to other buildings on site, located off Hagley Road.

Head of fundraising and lottery Charlotte Schofield said: "This project will allow us to be able to treat more people, we will be able to support more families who are affected by these illnesses."

The day centre is being upgraded to feature a second storey, allowing the ground floor to hold all of the patient services.

JD Sports is hit with £60,000 safety fine

JD Sports Fashion PLC has been fined £60,000 after admitting fire safety breaches at a Black Country store.

The retailer pleaded guilty to six breaches related to its old premises in the Merry Hill Shopping Centre.

An internal fire risk assessment had flagged up problems 18 months before the store was visited by West Midlands Fire Service inspectors, a court heard.

Mr Mark Jackson, prosecuting, said fire inspection officers dropped in at the store as part of a routine pre-Christmas inspection in December 2015, but found fire escapes and exits blocked by items including crates and clothes rails.

Immediately after the inspection the obstructions were removed, Wolverhampton Magistrates Court heard. However, when inspectors returned two weeks later for an unannounced follow-up, they found 'the very same protected route and emergency exit blocked', Mr Jackson said.

A fire risk assessment from May 2014 had found an 'escape corridor to the rear is congested with packaging waste', the prosecutor said.

"It was plain that the company had been on notice of the problem at least 18 months prior to the December 2015 inspections," Mr Jackson said.

Miss Eleanor Sanderson, defending, said the fire safety breaches 'arose from difficulties in managing stock levels', which had resulted in 'an excess of materials'. Its other fire detection and prevention systems were all in full working order at the time.

JD Sports has since moved to new premises in Merry Hill which are 141 per cent bigger. Meanwhile improvements in stock ordering have also been made. District Judge Michael Wheeler fined the store £60,000 – £10,000 for each charge – and ordered it to pay court costs of £7,463.52.

Fizzogs help trio to sizzle

THREE Black Country starlets are being given their first vital steps into the limelight by the Fizzogs comedy group.

Hollie Fellows, Rebecca Fuller and Greg Piper will appear alongside the acclaimed troop in forthcoming shows.

The trio are all performing arts students at Dudley's Evolve College and have already enjoyed their first taste of stardom in previous Fizzog shows. Now they will take centre stage in 'Freezin', a spoof on the movie Frozen, at Wolverhampton's Grand Theatre on November 16.

They will also have roles in a new production The Wicked Wizzard of Fizzog – a parody of Wicked and the Wizard of Oz – which opens a Midland-wide tour at Netherton Arts Centre on December 14.

Fizzog Jacky Fellows said: "It's great that we can give the kids this chance to shine in front of live audiences."

Thousands flock to canal festival

Oliver Maunder, aged six, and Neal Thomas by a 1923 Foden steam lorry on display at the Bonded Warehouse, Stourbridge

THOUSANDS of people flocked to an annual canal festival to celebrate the town's waterways at the weekend.

The two-day event in Stourbridge saw almost 100 canal boats take part, with old steam engines also attending.

Organisers declared the event 'very successful' and said spirits had not been dampened by the windy and wet weather. It was the 37th year the Stourbridge Navigation Trust held its Open Weekend at the Bonded Warehouse on Canal Street.

Chris Dyche, trust financial director, said: "The event was very successful. Obviously the weather knocked us down a lot of Saturday, but Sunday was absolutely superb."

"I would estimate around 5,000 to 8,000 people came throughout the weekend. We had nearly 100 boats alongside a steam roller, a steam train engine and a steam lorry."

"It is run to promote the waterways and the building and to give something back to the local community each year."

Right to Buy homes are not being replaced

COUNCILS in the Black Country are failing to replace homes sold through the Right to Buy scheme, new figures reveal.

Over the past two years, only one in 10 properties were replaced by Dudley Council, which sold 389 homes to council tenants and built 46 new ones.

While Wolverhampton council sold 457 homes under the scheme – but according to official Government figures only 30 were built as replacements, just 6.56 per cent.

Sandwell fared better building 167 new homes and selling 344 under the scheme – a replacement rate of almost 50 per cent.

Right to Buy gives tenants and some housing associations sizeable discounts if they want to buy the council home they are living in.

The scheme has proved controversial in recent years, with many councils warning they did not have the money to replace homes like-for-like.

Today's figures were revealed by Black Country Liberal Democrats through a Freedom of Information Act request. Rob Quarmbay, spokesman for the Lib Dems in Wolverhampton, said it was disgraceful all sold off homes were not being replaced.

By Pete Madeley

"Councils in the Black Country have some of the worst records in the country on this issue and that is utterly shameful," he said.

"The Government must reform Right to Buy by allowing local councils to suspend it if they want, and provide enough funding to ensure all homes that are sold are replaced."

However, the Local Government Association said councils were being hampered by rules only allowing them to keep a third of all receipts from homes sold under Right to Buy.

Helping to put you on path to success

Achievement levels for Halesowen College students are excellent

Apprenticeships are growing in popularity at Halesowen College

Staff support all students throughout their Halesowen experience

Thinking about the future and seeing yourself in the career of your choice can seem like a distant dream while you are still concentrating on your GCSEs but visiting Halesowen College and talking to friendly and informative staff can turn your dream into a reality.

Go along to the open events on Friday, November 3, between 4pm and 8pm and Saturday, November 4, between 10am and 4pm to discover how the college can help you take your own personal route to success.

By making Halesowen College your number one choice, you will be able to choose from the region's biggest range of courses, at all levels and an ability to combine subjects will help you to tailor a programme that best suits you. Whether you have your sights on university, a vocational qualification or an apprenticeship, the highly professional staff will be available to give you advice and guidance and help at every stage of the decision-making process.

Achievement levels for Halesowen College students are excellent and progression to further and higher education and employment is outstanding. This year, 98 per cent of students achieved an A-level pass and 31 per cent attained high grades A*, A or B – 32 subjects achieved an outstanding 100 per cent pass rate! Vocational results were equally impressive, with 222 students gaining Triple Distinction Star grades in their Level 3 Extended Diplomas. As a result over 750 Halesowen students have progressed to university this autumn.

Apprenticeships are also growing in popularity and Halesowen College offers an exciting range of opportunities for you to get the qualifications that employers are looking for, while earning a wage.

Apprentices are highly likely to secure permanent employment at the end of their programme – 93.7 per cent of Halesowen apprentices who completed their apprenticeship in 2016/17 progressed to full-time employment.

Visitors to the college's open events will also have the opportunity to see for themselves the fantastic facilities students enjoy in a modern and easily accessible campus.

All curriculum areas have benefitted in the last few years from an extensive development programme and whether your interests are academic, scientific, technological or creative,

Halesowen College is one of the best equipped colleges to help you succeed.

A college spokesman said: "Our students are at the heart of everything we do and we want to support them throughout their Halesowen experience. "Students can access support from their personal coach and learning support staff.

"Financial assistance is also available and nine out of 10 of our current students travel to Halesowen on our free college buses.

"Make Halesowen College your number one choice. Come to our Open Events, meet staff and students and see yourself as having the successful future you deserve."

Rat droppings led to bosses being fined

FORMER owners of a takeaway have been fined after rat droppings were found in a kitchen.

New Pepitos in Dudley was visited by environmental health officers in December after anonymous complaints.

Mohammed Khaliq and Mohammed Zamir, owners at the time, pleaded guilty to breaches of health and hygiene regulations when they appeared before Wolverhampton magistrates.

The takeaway had inadequate pest control procedures, dirty surfaces and equipment, and no hot water for a hand-wash basin.

Neither Khaliq or Zamir currently run the takeaway, which is now trading under a new name by new proprietors who are not connected to the case. The court heard after the discovery of rat droppings that officers immediately closed the premises using emergency powers.

Khaliq and Zamir both pleaded guilty to nine offences under food hygiene and safety regulations at court on October 5.

The court heard Khaliq, 44, of Bunns Lane, Dudley and 44-year-old Zamir, of Highfield Road, Dudley, were inexperienced. They were ordered to pay nearly £1,000 each in fines, costs and charges.

Ton-up Gerry's party was the hottest ticket

Gerry Byrne, of Stourbridge, has celebrated turning 100

PLENTY of people feel popular on their birthday but imagine not being able to fit all of your friends onto the party guest-list.

That's the case for Stourbridge centenarian Gerry Byrne. The former Midland Red bus conductor celebrated turning 100 with a party at the Stourbridge Institute earlier this month but couldn't fit all of his friends in.

Eldest son Peter Byrne said: "There are so many people we could have invited to Gerry's party but there simply wasn't enough room."

Originally from County Limerick in Ireland, Gerry turned 100 on October 5. He moved to Stourbridge in 1943 and worked as a bus conductor for Midland Red from 1948 until 1979, later working at Mecca Bingo on the Hagley Road until he retired aged 76.

Gerry had eight children with wife Dorothy, who he married in 1947, and has 11 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren. An Irish citizen, he is set to receive the Centenarian Bounty, a national award made by the Irish president to their nationals who have reached the age of 100.

Martial arts club gets fundraising

A MARTIAL arts club has kick-started its fundraising initiative for the year ahead.

Young Gloves Karate boasts 350 students at 12 different schools, with classes held in Stourbridge, as well as in Stourport, Kidderminster and Bewdley.

Since forming 15 years ago, the club has helped to raise £56,000 for children's charities. This year's recipient is the High Riders Riding for the Disabled group in Stourport.

The fundraising efforts were launched with the annual awards ceremony, celebrating the achievement of students throughout the year. Some £600 was raised on the night, kicking off the bid to match, or beat, last year's total of £6,720.

A charity competition will take place on November 26. To sponsor a trophy or donate a prize, contact Lisa Homer on 07904 913425. All the money raised will go directly to the High Riders.

Pierce Wilkinson, aged 13

Family back school sculpture to commemorate tragic stab victim

A secondary school will look to build a permanent memorial for a former student who died in a horrific stabbing.

Redhill in Stourbridge is planning to unveil the tribute to late student and double-murder victim Pierce Wilkinson when it is finished in July.

The commemorative sculpture is in the planning stages but has gained the backing of the family, with Black Country artist Luke Perry offering to work with them on it.

Around £600 has been raised from students at the school to build the sculpture, with pupils taking part in a fun run. Lydia Wilkinson, Pierce's sister, is said to be involved in the planning process and fully behind the project.

Head of PE at Redhill School, Mike Fields, said: "At the moment it's looking likely that it should be sorted for July."

"The students did a fun run where year seven, eight and nine ran a mile each, the money that was raised from that will total around £600. That's going to go towards the sculpture with some benches around a place for the students to reflect."

"Lydia was involved in the meeting, they Facetimed her and she will be involved in the process and the planning. She's fully behind it, the family are fully behind it. They're keen to have something as a permanent memorial for Pierce."

"With the nature of what happened it's nice to have something a little bit bigger."

Pierce, aged 13, was murdered by Aaron Barley, a homeless drifter who his family had tried to help. Barley also killed Pierce's mother Tracey in the attack at the family home in Greyhound Lane, Norton, Stourbridge on March 30.

Artist Luke Perry, who has offered to work with the school on the sculpture, is known for his metal-works around the Black Country.

Hero driver uses van to stop runaway bus

A HERO van man stopped a bus after its driver collapsed at the wheel – by using his own vehicle to block its path.

Gary Welsh, aged 51, was first alerted to the unconscious driver when the bus clipped his van and then hit two others.

He turned round and drove after the blue single decker, pulling up in front of it and putting on his handbrake.

The ground worker then got out of his van with his team and pulled the bus driver out before paramedics arrived. He was resuscitated and taken to hospital, where he remains in a critical condition.

The drama took place on a 200-metre stretch of Darlaston Road in Wednesbury at 7.30am on Thursday.

Mr Welsh said: "We were driving up the road and the bus driver clipped us and took the mirror off. His head was down. I honked the horn but he didn't shift and we stopped and Kevin got out, thinking he would stop but he didn't."

"At first we thought he'd pinched the bus the way he was driving. We had to try and get him so I drove in front of him and put the handbrake on to stop him and he crashed into the back of us." Mr Welsh, from Bloxwich, was on the way to work for G&L Contracts and was in the van with his brother, Nigel Welsh, 49, and colleagues, Kevin Noble, 39, and David Danks, 50.

Emergency services at the scene

The van and bus in Darlaston Road

He said: "We got out and saw he was slumped over the wheel and started to get him out. We managed to get him out and lay him on his side. But there was no response."

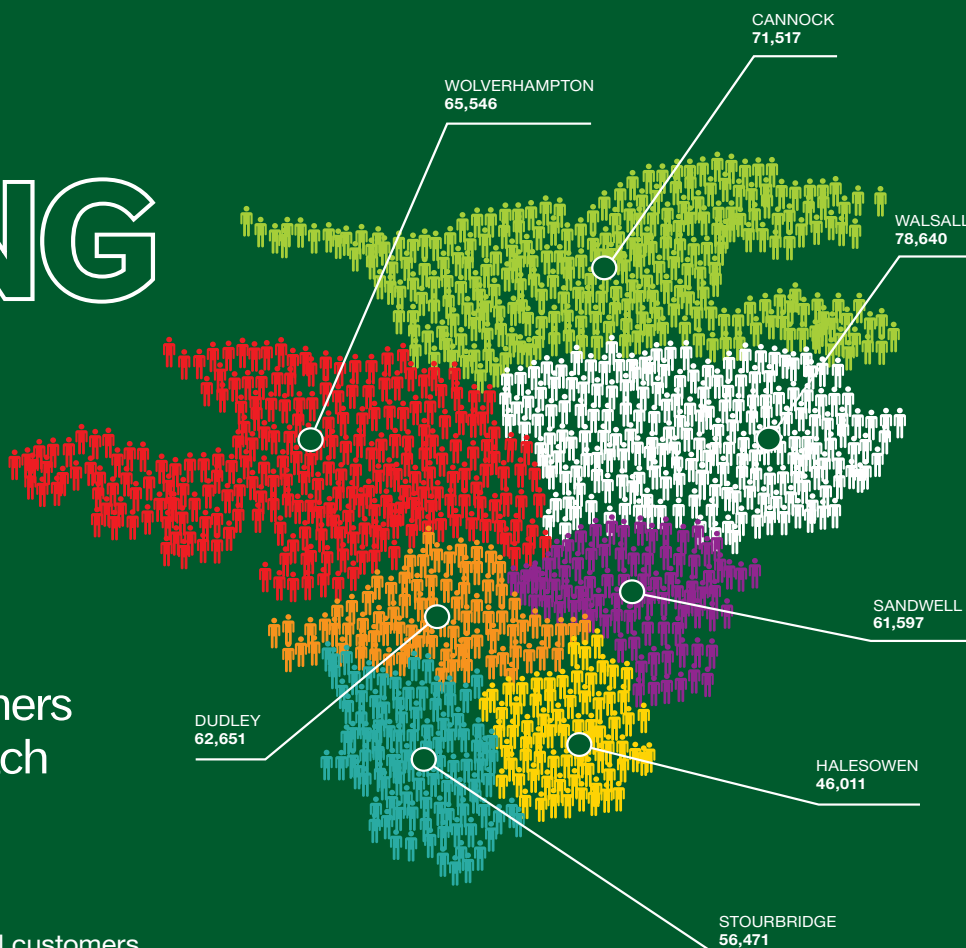

The driver had suffered a cardiac arrest while driving the empty bus. No-one was hurt. Bus firm, Thandi, of Abberley Street, in Smethwick, has been approached for a comment.

Strictly time was a dream for me

Amy Dowden and Brian Conley during the results show for BBC One's Strictly Come Dancing

BLACK Country dancer Amy Dowden said she 'had a blast' with comedian Brian Conley after the pair were booted off Strictly Come Dancing.

Dowden, aged 26, who lives in Dudley, and veteran comic Conley became the latest pair to be voted off following a dance-off with Sunday Brunch presenter Simon Rimmer and Karen Clifton.

But Amy said they were pleased to have made it to week five. She said: "I have had the most incredible journey. I experienced things I'd dreamed of since I was a little girl. To be part of the biggest show on TV was amazing. Brian did an absolutely fantastic job. He was hilarious. This year's competition was so strong and we just made sure all the way through we had a blast."

The couple found themselves languishing at the bottom of the leaderboard on Saturday night after their jive performance earned them a meagre 16 points.

Brexit takes a back seat as focus on skills crisis

BREXIT weariness is kicking in as Black Country bosses concentrate on the day-to-day problems of running their businesses.

The launch of a new Black Country campaign to support manufacturing companies found many concerned with the continuing skills gap and the need to get young people into engineering rather than the political wrangling around Brexit.

By Simon Penfold

For most, the important issue was the impact of the weak pound, making imports more expensive but boosting the workload of those in the export supply chain.

Karen Hughes, of Brierley Hill-based Harco Engineering, said: "It's gone manic. Our order book is probably better than it has been in the last two years."

"Although most of our customers are in the UK, around 90 per cent of them export what they make. It went quiet after the Brexit vote, but a few months later it suddenly picked up and hasn't stopped."

Adam Marshall, director general of the British Chambers of Commerce, said that while bigger corporations were looking at their contingency plans, most smaller companies were getting on with the day-to-day job of running their businesses.

"We are seeing Brexit weariness," he said. "Companies are seeing it as a distraction and saying they will deal with the consequences when they have some clarity. They are getting on with running their businesses."

While Brexit took something of a back seat, the need for clarity and a younger, better trained workforce were high on the list of priorities for the Black Country manufacturing campaign, Making The Future, which is led by the Black Country Chamber of Commerce.

Reflecting changing tastes in showroom

ANTIQUES AND COLLECTIBLES

with John Ridgway of Perry & Phillips

I'm often asked by people what sells best in the saleroom and the answer is always the same – items that are currently popular.

The antiques business reflects changing customer demand and items that sold for hundreds of pounds just a few years ago may not do anywhere near as well today if they are no longer considered popular or stylish.

At the moment, smaller and good quality pieces are definitely high on the buyer's wish-list and this was made very plain at our October sale.

One small item in particular stood out as being a major success, a chess set that sold for several hundred pounds more than its estimated guide price.

But it wasn't your average chess set – this was a Staunton set, complete with three and a half inch kings, in its original box and with original marquetry board, all in very good condition.

It sold for an extremely healthy £350 including buyer's premium, which was an excellent result given that its estimate was £40 to £60.

Another popular lot was a pair of stunning bronze Marley horses in excellent condition, sold for £600 including premium and was again one of those smaller pieces that are currently attracting both private buyers and dealers.

So unusual and good quality are the watchwords just now for saleable and small auction items, whether you are buying or selling – look out for nice carriage clocks, pieces of Moorcroft, silverware, Victorian tea caddys, quality jewellery, bronzes and so on.

And if selling, do check before you bring items in for valuation to ensure that they are in good condition as damage will almost always affect the price.

Our next sale will be our Christmas auction on December 5.

- Perry and Phillips hold valuation days, for sale items only, every Wednesday from 10am until 4pm.
- The next Perry and Phillips sale of antiques and collectables takes place at the Mill Street saleroom in Low Town, Bridgnorth, on Tuesday, December 5 – our Christmas auction. Viewing will be during the weekend and on Monday and also from 10am on auction day
- New sale bidders are advised to attend the sale-room early on auction day to register and be allocated a bidding number.
- Perry and Phillips hold sales on the first Tuesday of every other month.

Starting young with outfits for Halloween

Children love Halloween outfits

I CONTINUE this week with the subject of my previous article on little ones clothing.

My five-month old granddaughter went to a "superhero" baby sensory session last week, the babies were dressed in mini Superman, Batman, Spiderman, Wonder Woman and even Gamora from Guardians of the Galaxy costumes. They were all clad in the latest available outfits and included hats and footwear, the photos were great for the family album.

I am amazed at what is available, the supermarkets have full Halloween outfits from newborn upwards, fluffy pumpkin babygrows in orange, white ghost and mummy outfits and even a purple and black Dracula with miniature cape – hopefully these babies will not be out trick or treating with their older siblings.

There are also dinosaurs, gnomes and scarecrow outfits to choose from, don't forget the Christmas Eve elf ensemble... and they are generally bought for wearing on one day only. You can of course dress the dog to match too, a total family look?

It feeds their imagination, lovely primary

STYLE FOCUS

with Janet Timmis

colours and cartoon logos, even from a few weeks old they have music and animation on You Tube and Disney films en masse, by the time they can talk these characters are part of their everyday life. Channelled correctly they can learn so much.

It isn't just superheroes – the baby outfits sport animals faces, complete with eyes, nose, and whiskers, soft toys to match the garments and cosy coats in soft fleece with ears on the hoods.

The garments get more elaborate with embroidered collars, ribbon trim and graphic prints. We dress our children in such amazing outfits, jeggings, denim jackets and tiny baseball caps.

Babies wardrobes are packed full, an outfit or maybe more than one, for every day, growing out of them and the space quickly being filled with something new... and for special occasions girly glitter and sequin is the order of the day or a tux and bow tie for the boys, no longer just for a glamorous adult evening out.

Luckily, we have a Nutmeg store coming to the updated Morrisons in Market Drayton but also look at Tesco and Asda's offering. Matalan has a vast range of choice, however for something different check out Lucy & Lola on Facebook, bespoke clothing for little ones. Don't forget to visit the Tin Shed, also in Market Drayton, for factory outlet value items.

This wide choice of adult themed and elaborate baby and children's clothing is a relatively recent phenomenon and it is now moving towards designer trend influenced garments based on a six-month turnaround, thank goodness children grow so quickly and allow us to purchase a continuous supply of new clothing and accessories, including bibs, blankets, muslin cloths and toys.

People of all ages can be affected by osteoporosis

Weight-bearing exercise – even walking – is a good way to keep your bones healthy

Look after your bones – no matter how old you are

Make sure you get plenty of calcium

HEALTHY bones underpin – quite literally – so much of our overall health and fitness, but it's easy to take them for granted.

Anyone can get osteoporosis – which causes weakened, fragile, fracture-prone bones – but women tend to be most affected, and the risk generally increases with age.

According to the National Osteoporosis Society, one in two females and one in five men over 50 experience fractures, mostly due to low bone strength.

So, what can we do to look after our bone health? While osteoporosis might seem like something you only need to worry about once you reach a certain age, it's never too early to start looking after yourself – in fact, the earlier the better. Here's the experts' advice for looking after your bones, whatever your age...

WHEN YOU'RE VERY YOUNG

Our bones stop growing after a certain point, so our childhood and teens – plus our 20s, to a degree – play an important role when it comes to developing strong bones for life.

Professor David Reid, consultant rheumatologist and osteoporosis specialist at 25 Harley Street (25harleystreet.co.uk), points out that "more than 50 per cent of the risk" comes from genetics – but lifestyle measures are certainly worthwhile, as they'll help ensure you make the most of what nature's given you.

"The message is, 'Look after your bones'," states Reid, who says there are three key points here, starting with "weight-bearing exercise, to maximise your potential bone mass".

Unsure what weight-bearing exercise means? Not to be confused with weightlifting, it's basically any exercise where you're working against gravity – so things like walking, dancing, jogging, rather than things like swimming and cycling, where you've got the water or a bike supporting your weight.

Of course, calcium is also crucial for healthy bones, and Reid says fad diets – especially those which advise cutting dairy products and fats – can be a concern in terms of teenage girls, who may be compromising their future bone health.

IN YOUR 30S AND 40S

"Losing bone density is a normal part of the ageing process, and it will begin to fall from the age of 30. Some people lose bone density much faster than others, and this can lead to osteoporosis," says Damian McClelland, clinical director of Musculoskeletal Services at Bupa (bupa.co.uk).

"There are steps young women can take to guard against osteoporosis, such as maintaining a balanced, nutritious diet, which includes calcium-rich foods, such as cheese, sardines and leafy green vegetables like kale."

Reid explains that, while your body will have stopped building bone mass by this stage, "you can certainly do the best you can in terms of maintaining it". Again, plenty of calcium and vitamin D are essential (McClelland suggests topping up your dietary levels with "egg yolks and fatty fish such as salmon"), along with regular exercise.

IN YOUR 50S, 60S AND BEYOND

"Women lose bone density rapidly in the first few years after the menopause," says McClelland. "There are no symptoms in the early stages of bone loss, however, once someone's bones have been weakened by osteoporosis, they may experience loss of height, a stooped posture, or back pain caused by a fractured or collapsed vertebra."

Reid suggests women have a good chat with their GP about managing the menopause, and whether hormone replacement therapy might be an option for them.

I'm having a bit of a second wind now

He's one of Britain's most larger than life entertainers. Actor, TV presenter and showman Christopher Biggins has led a unique career on the stage and is one of the nation's best loved panto stars and reality TV show contestants.

He will talk about his career this afternoon when he visits Wolverhampton's Grand Theatre for An Afternoon With.

The show will be presented by BBC Midlands Today's Nick Owen and fans can take their seat a unique opportunity to get up close and personal with Biggins in the beautiful Grade II Listed auditorium.

Christopher is well known for his performances in pantomime, his most famous role is that of Widow Twankey in Aladdin. He last appeared in a Wolverhampton pantomime at the Grand Theatre in 2010.

His theatre roles have included The Baker in Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, Herod in Jesus Christ Superstar, and 18 months at the London Palladium in the stage adaptation of Chitty Chitty Bang Bang.

In 2017, he received the Lifetime Achievement Award at the Great British Pantomime Awards.

Christopher was born in Oldham, Lancashire, England and raised in Salisbury, Wiltshire, where he took elocution lessons and participated in local drama groups, leading to a job at the local repertory theatre.

He is best known as a comedy actor, appearing as the regular character Lukewarm in the popular situation comedy Porridge (1974-77) starring Ronnie Barker. Other comedy shows he appeared in include Whatever Happened to the Likely Lads? (1973) and Some Mothers Do 'Ave 'Em (1973, 1978). In 1976 he played dramatic role as Nero in the BBC dramatisation of I, Claudius by Robert Graves, having been selected for the role partly on the strength of a television commercial in which he had played a Roman emperor presiding over the games.

He also appeared in the BBC's Poldark in 1977. Despite these serious roles, his co-hosting of Surprise, Surprise and hosting children's gameshow On Safari (1982-1985) for TVS led to him being typecast as a "bubbly personality"; when asked in by an interviewer if he resented that, he replied: "No, not a bit of it. I'm perfectly happy being me, thank you, and I happen to know that I am afforded enormous respect from everybody I know. And anyway, I'm having something of a second wind now. I've reached the age where all kinds of roles are opening up to me."

On children's television he had a regular role as supermarket manager Adam Painting in the children's television programme Rentaghost (1978-1983) also played Reverend Whiting in Southern Television's Brendon Chase, produced in 1980. In the early 1980s he hosted children's gameshow On Safari, a bizarre afternoon game show with a jungle-themed studio set.

Christopher appeared in the Big Finish Productions audio drama The One Doctor, based on the television series Doctor Who. His film roles include The Rocky Horror Picture Show (1975) and "The Baker" in the 1999 Video Version of Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat. His theatre roles have included The Baker in Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, Herod in Jesus Christ Superstar, and in the stage adaptation of Chitty Chitty Bang Bang where he was teamed to great success opposite Louise Gold for 18 months at the London Palladium.

Christopher appeared as the regular character Lukewarm in the situation comedy Porridge (1974-1977) starring Ronnie Barker. Other comedy shows he appeared in include Whatever Happened to the Likely Lads? (1973) and Some Mothers Do 'Ave 'Em (1973, 1978). He played Nero in the BBC dramatisation of I, Claudius (1976), from the novels by Robert Graves, having been selected for the role partly on the strength of a television commercial in which he had played a Roman emperor presiding over the games. He also appeared in the BBC's Poldark (1977) as the Reverend Osborne Whitworth, and the TV miniseries Masada (1981).

On children's television, he had a regular role as department store owner Adam Painting in the children's television programme Rentaghost (1978-1983) and also played Reverend Whiting in Southern Television's Brendon Chase, produced in 1980. In the early 1980s he hosted children's game show On Safari, which had a jungle-themed studio set.

He was the subject of This Is Your Life in 1999 when he was surprised by Michael Aspel at the Theatre Royal, Brighton. He appeared in The One Doctor, one of Big Finish Productions' audio dramas based on the television series Doctor Who. He took part in the seventh series of I'm a Celebrity... Me Out of Here! in 2007. He was eventually voted the winner of the show on 30 November 2007. He took part in an episode of Celebrity Come Dine With Me, first shown on Channel 4 on 15 February 2009. He won £1,000 for his chosen charity.

In 2009, he played himself as a pantomime director in the BBC Two sitcom, Psychoville. In 2010, he was a celebrity guest team captain on an episode of What Do Kids Know? along with Rufus Hound, Joe Swash and Sara Cox on Watch while later that year he played God in the BBC adult puppet comedy show Mongrels.

I've reached the age where all kinds of roles are opening up to me

In May 2011, he starred in the second series of Channel 4's Celebrity Five Go To... in which the celebrities visited South Africa.

In 2014, he took part in the celebrity cookery programme Celebrity MasterChef on BBC One. In 2014, he took part in a celebrity edition of Catchphrase. He voices It's Not Me, It's You on Channel 5.

On 28 July 2016, Biggins entered the Celebrity Big Brother house to participate in its eighteenth series. He was chosen by the public to take part in the first secret mission. He was removed from the house on Day 9. The show's producers stated that Biggins had made "a number of comments capable of causing great offence to housemates and the viewing public." Forty-four people complained to Ofcom about comments Christopher made, but Ofcom ruled that he was not in breach of broadcasting rules.

William The Conqueror

Ruarri's roots – back to before life got in the way

BLENDING American traditional music and grunge, trio William The Conqueror have broken out from their Cornish roots to cause a buzz on the music scene.

Snapped up by promoters Metropolis/Live Nation, the band that in late summer released debut album Proud Disturber Of The Peace have been described as a blend of stomping country music and stoner rock.

They are in concert at Birmingham Glee Club on Wednesday, November 1.

The band is fronted by former folk singer-songwriter Ruarri Joseph, who walked away from a major record deal to pursue a rock direction.

He said: "I spent a lot of time on the folk circuit just by virtue of the fact I had a beard and an acoustic guitar.

"It paid the bills but didn't feel like I was following my creative instincts. I reached a point when I thought my younger self, that had cut his teeth in punk and rock bands, would've been disappointed in what I'd become – so William started as a way to pay homage to that youth that got sidelined when life got in the way."

The band, that is completed by multi-instrumentalists Harry Harding and Naomi Holmes, have also been touring with Danny & The Champions Of The World.

Punk and protest anthems for youth

Former teenage runaway Louise Distras turned her back on bullies in her home town of Wakefield to pick up a guitar and channel her anger into becoming a leading light of the new punk scene.

Tipped as one of Kerrang's stars of 2017, this Nirvana fan creates anthems of love and fury for a let-down generation, finding common cause with the spirit of '77 and such bands as The Clash and Sex Pistols.

"I'm standing up for the disenfranchised kids, who get picked on at school, the kids outside the box," says Louise.

Having received a helping hand from New Model Army and Billy Bragg, who recognise a protest singer when they see one, she had played the Leftfield Stage at Glastonbury.

SINGLE

She has also performed alongside Mick Jones and Glen Matlock to raise money in Joe Strummer's memory. She has also toured with the Buzzcocks and The Damned.

She won acclaim for her single Love Me the Way I Am/Bullets and debut album Dreams from the Factory Floor, and recently released new single Outside Of You. She describes the latter as "fighting to be yourself in a world that wants you to be something you're not".

She is planning to release her second album early in 2018. It will, she says "take the songs to a new level with harder hitting lyrics and harder hitting concepts."

She brings her tour with Itch (The Blues King) to Wolverhampton's Slade Rooms on Thursday,

Shout out it's a Grand time for Lulu

It's a big week for music one-nighters at Wolverhampton Grand Theatre. Lulu is in concert on Sunday. She first had a hit more than 50 years ago with Shout. Over the years she's done Eurovision and has collaborated with artists from David Bowie to Take That. Other concerts include Rick Wakeman with his Piano Portraits on Monday, Eagles tribute Talon on Tuesday, top Elvis tribute Gordon Hendricks with The Spirit of Aloha in Concert on Wednesday and soul greats The Stylistics on November 2.

Shadow of War over Middle-earth

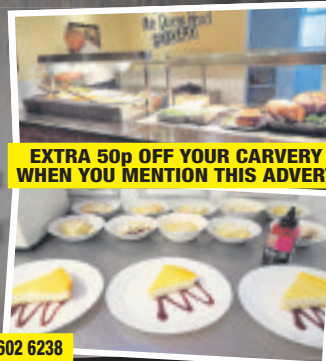

Middle-earth: Shadow of War, the epic sequel to award-winning fantasy game Middle-earth: Shadow of Mordor, has been released for Xbox One, PlayStation4, Windows 10 PC and Steam. Returning to the world of JRR Tolkien, it is set between the events of The Hobbit and The Lord of the Rings, with ranger Talon and elf lord Celebrimbor pitched against Sauron's orc armies. "Monolith Productions has advanced its innovative artificial intelligence technology, their Nemesis System, from Middle-earth: Shadow of Mordor, to create a gameplay experience unlike any other," says David Haddad, President of Warner Bros Interactive Entertainment. "Players of Middle-earth: Shadow of War will encounter a totally personalised world that remembers their every move, along with a compelling story."

Talking Pictures: Harry Potter (BBC2, 8.30pm)
 Actor Warwick Davis explores the BBC archives to tell the story of how JK Rowling's Harry Potter novels transitioned from the page to the silver screen. Over the course of 10 years, all seven of Rowling's main Potter books were brought to life for cinemagoers, making stars of Daniel Radcliffe, Rupert Grint and Emma Watson, the young actors who played the lead roles in the series. Davis - who starred alongside the teens as Professor Flitwick and Griphook the goblin - showcases rarely seen footage and interviews as he goes behind-the-scenes on the franchise that became one of the biggest in cinema history.

COMMERCIAL FEATURE

NEWLY REFURBISHED PARK LANE TAVERN

They always say never judge a book by its cover so we decided to check out The Park Lane Tavern in Colley Gate, and I have to say what was on offer in there was a total surprise.

It serves a carvery option 7 days a week from midday which consists of a choice of 4 meats, turkey, beef, pork and gammon and accompanied by stuffing, Yorkshire puddings and up to 12 vegetables, topped off with what they call their "secret recipe gravy" known also as what mother used to make! All this for just £4.99 for a lunchtime meal or £5.99 evenings and Saturdays and £7.99 for Sunday lunch represents extremely good value by today's standards.

They also don't forget their mini diners with 'Kids Eat Free' Monday to Saturday between 3pm and 6pm and during school holidays it's All Day Monday to Saturday.

But it doesn't stop their they also have a full main menu consisting of the classic pub favourites such as steaks, mixed grills, burgers and fish and chips, where the fish would not be out of place in any issue of 'Moby Dick'. To finish is there very tempting dessert menu, that's if you have room after the size of meals you get at The Park Lane Tavern.

Then if that's not enough choice for you you can also choose for the breakfast which is served Friday, Saturday and Sunday 08.30am until 11.00am. Their breakfast is a buffet style 'All you can eat' with enough choice to satisfy any diner from eggs 2 ways, bacon, sausage, mushrooms, baked beans, hash browns, black pudding, grilled fresh tomatoes, toast & fried bread. There's even jam for your toast if you still not full after all that.

Half Price Monday

They also host special evenings like their 'Half Price Monday' which has proven to be very popular, and why not, already reasonably priced selected main meals off their main menu (which includes steaks) at half price served between 5pm and 8pm every Monday. Also their psychic evenings where for £15 you get a reading from a medium and a carvery, for those believers amongst you that must be a bargain.

You get a very friendly feeling when you enter The Park Lane Tavern and that's mostly down to the staff. Happy to see you and always keen to help. They have a lot of regular customers and it's been known for a customer's drink to be poured and waiting for them before they reach the bar, you don't see that at many places nowadays.

There are no airs or graces at The Park Lane Tavern, you get delicious food at great prices served by happy staff in a comfortable environment. No wonder this place has people returning time after time.

Comedy and drama is just what the doctor ordered

They say that there are few decent roles for women over a certain age – although perhaps they wouldn't if they saw Eileen Atkins' CV.

The veteran star, who is now 83, is as busy as ever. During the past 10 years, she's starred in Cranford, Marple, Poirot, Psychoville, Upstairs Downstairs (the revamped version of the 1970s hit she co-created with Jean Marsh), This Is Jinsy, The Crown and Carnage – and that's just on the small screen.

She also joined the cast of Doc Martin in 2011, playing the character's formidable aunt, Ruth Ellingham.

Atkins may be the oldest member of the cast, but nobody makes allowances for her age – not that she would want them to – as an anecdote about an early day of filming the current run reveals.

"It was an awfully cold day and we were filming on the side of a cliff near Tintagel," she recalls. "The day started well but by the end of the day it was raining and nasty. I remember doing the last scene and everyone shouting 'do it in one take'.

"That's the perils of location filming. I always seem to get my heaviest scenes at the beginning when it's very cold. I am one of the coldest people in the world anyway.

"That day I was wearing three sets of thermals and heat patches on my back. Helen Felstead, the costume assistant, who looked after me, was fantastic. She'd have a big duvet coat and fur-lined boots ready for me to put on as soon as we broke from filming, and she gave me hot water bottles to hold. How she always found somewhere to boil a kettle to fill the hot water bottles, I don't know."

This series has reunited her with her old Upstairs Downstairs colleague Art Malik, who made a guest appearance as the son of a man Ruth was once in love with.

It was a touching storyline, but that's what Doc Martin does so well – it marries comedy and drama beautifully.

"I think Doc Martin is wonderful," says Atkins. "It has comedy, scenery, wonderful performances, not just Martin, who is supreme as a comedy actor, but there are lots of other brilliant actors.

And what I think is an absolute winner is every week you learn about a medical condition without seeing anything horrible."

Filming has proved to be a godsend for the actress, who lost her beloved husband Bill last year.

"I had not wanted to work after my husband Bill Shepherd died. If I hadn't promised already to do this I honestly think I would have just not bothered with anything any more. I kept thinking 'I've said I'll do it, so I have to go down there to Cornwall'.

"It's lifted my spirits to be here, so it's not just the work, but I have been glad of it, it has helped me through a difficult time as well."

Here's hoping it continues to do so.

Ian McNeice, Joe Absolom, Jessica Ransom, John Marquez and Selina Cadell also star.

Martin Clunes and Caroline Catz star in Doc Martin, Wednesday, ITV, 9pm

BEST OF THE REST

WEDNESDAY

The Apprentice

BBC1, 9pm

As Lord Sugar celebrates his 70th birthday, the contestants are tasked to a shopping spree across London to purchase items that mark milestones in his life and career. The candidates have one day to find nine specific items at the best possible price, before meeting at the House of Lords. For one team, there is confusion over the mystery object, while poor planning leaves the other team lagging behind. In the boardroom, Lord Sugar gives out warnings, as well as hefty fines.

THURSDAY

Harry Styles at the BBC

BBC1, 8pm

You can run but you can't hide from those One Direction lads this week. While Liam Payne prepares to co-host Friday's Sounds Like Friday Night, there's no prizes among the celebrities sharing their memories of the wedding, and the programme also hears from page boy Prince Michael of Kent. But this was in many ways the 'people's wedding' and Armstrong also hears from the ordinary people who helped make it happen, including one of the seamstresses who worked on the dress.

Harry Styles at the BBC, Thursday, BBC1, 8pm

TUESDAY

The Great British Bake Off: The Final

Channel 4, 8pm

One of the nicest surprises of 2017 has been how well Channel 4's updated twist on the old favourite Bake Off recipe has proved to be. The previously unknown ingredient – like when Iain used za'atar that time in series five – was new judge Prue Leith, while the strong but contrasting flavours of hosts Sandi Toksvig and Noel Fielding were already known to be delightful on their own, but it remained to be seen whether they would work together. Happily, it all came out rather nicely, and this year's Bake Off has gone down a treat. Now – rather too soon, we feel – it's time for the final, with the remaining three tasked with creating a vast and impressive spread in order to clinch the crown. But whose flavours will the judges favour?

MONDAY

Nigella: At My Table

BBC2, 8.30pm

New series. Nigella Lawson celebrates the food she loves to cook for friends and family at home, demonstrating a wide range of recipes that are warming, comforting and inspirational. In the first edition, she shares new discoveries like her Turkish-inspired eggs, old-fashioned favourites including the aptly named Queen of Puddings, as well as her emergency brownies. Nigella rustles up a simple chicken and pea tray-bake for a relaxed get-together around the table, and she finds a new use for a spiraller.

A Very Royal Wedding

ITV, 9pm

A lot of pundits are claiming to hear wedding bells for Prince Harry, but the royal romance we should definitely be celebrating is that between the Queen and Prince Philip, who celebrate their 70th anniversary next month. To mark this auspicious occasion, Alexander Armstrong presents a feature-length documentary looking back at their big day. The wedding took place in a time of post-war austerity, but Armstrong finds out how a battered Britain still managed to make this a royal wedding to remember. Joan Collins and Sheila Hancock are for guessing who's following in the footsteps of Adele and Michael Buble for this one-off. Yes, fresh from the success of his appearance in global blockbuster Dunkirk, Harry Styles will be chatting to Nick Grimshaw about his rise from The X Factor wannabe, to 1D heartthrob, and his current projects. In early 2017, Styles launched his career as a solo artist when he premiered debut single Sign Of The Times on The Radio 1 Breakfast Show with Nick Grimshaw. Here he performs tracks from his self-titled debut album, as well as discussing his career.

FRIDAY

Sounds Like Friday Night

BBC1, 7.30pm

If a bad week continues to drag you down, what you need is a perfect music show. One thing that should make this second edition unforgettable is Liam Payne, one of the most successful singer-songwriters to emerge from Wolverhampton in years. Strip That Down, his debut single, shifted more than five million units worldwide, and big things are expected from his pending debut album. Aside from singing in the studio, and co-hosting performances from Liam Gallagher, whose debut solo album As You Were has been receiving plenty of publicity, and London Grammar.

Give someone the gift of relaxation

IT'S been a bit of a whirlwind year so far. Our daughter booked her wedding for the first day of September on a late availability. A great deal but it meant everything had to be done at speed. Find a dress, book a photographer, flowers, cake, outfits etc etc

But all ended well with a fantastic day at the lovely Rowton Castle in Shropshire and the bride looked stunning. She brought a lump to our throats. And at the end of the day we all said the same – wish we could turn back the clock and do it all again.

Then off they went on honeymoon and we were left feeling a bit flat, all the excitement over – be nice to have something to look forward to, ease the stress, fill the gap, you know what I mean.

CHOICE

With all the festive goods filling the shops now and no doubt many families trawling the internet for gifts for loved ones I thought the stressed – and now a lot poorer post wedding – parents, ie us, should trial the perfect gift. A wonderful way to unwind and the perfect way to treat a relative or friend or even better, yourself!

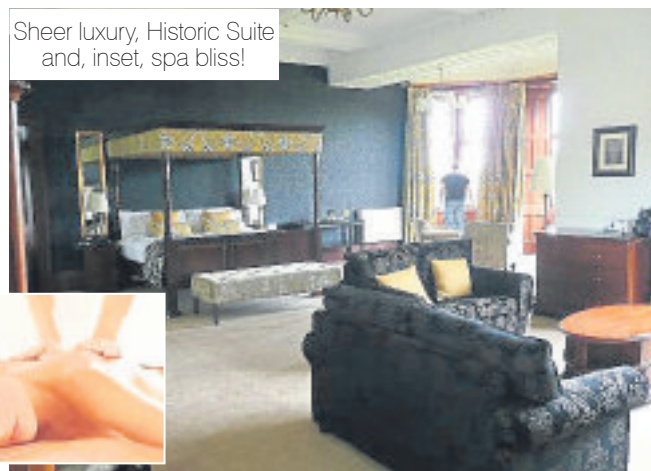

There are some things that internet shopping cannot replace and this is one of them. A couple of days away, relaxing with good food and entertainment, so where else but a Warner holiday. Yes, we have several grandchildren now who we love to see but it is nice sometimes to be adult only.

We could not have made a better choice. Thoresby Hall in Nottinghamshire – a bit like going home as a lot of our family live over that way. This grand building is just one of the many luxurious Warner sites and boasts a particularly good spa. With that in mind we booked in for two nights. Last minute thing so we did not know what we were getting but OMG when we got there what a wonderful surprise. We had been booked into an historic suite with four poster bed, enormous en suite with its own TV so you watch while you lay in the sunken bath. This is the life!

So grand – and just as impressive inside

Sheer luxury, Historic Suite and, inset, spa bliss!

As we had chosen Thoresby to sample the spa facilities we tried two of the vast array of the treatments on offer. My husband went for the Lava Shells massage which he thoroughly enjoyed, and I opted for the Spa Find Age Away, body exfoliating and massage and facial. I started chatting away to Jasmine but after a few minutes it was silence as I just drifted away. The spa also boasts a Turkish steam room, sauna, foot spa and hydrotherapy pool.

The dining at Thoresby is first class and the stay includes breakfast and three-course dinner before you head to the Pavilion club for a superb night of entertainment. For the two days we never set foot off site – no need to. There is so much on offer – sports, archery, rifle shooting, walks, tennis and bowls and indoor classes in everything you could image – even making towel animals. We found a great bulldog towel on our bed when we first arrived. A lovely touch. So while our daughter was enjoying her overseas honeymoon our break may have been a lot shorter and close to home but was thoroughly enjoyable.

Thoresby offers lots of spa packages, ideal for Christmas or birthdays, covering everything from nails to reiki. Most popular is a massage and next is a facial.

A spa day with a 25-min treatment costs £99 or for a complete chill out enjoy two 55-min treatments and a two-hour spa experience, with buck's fizz on arrival for £109. What a way to unwind. SUE ATTWATER

NOTICE TO READERS

Please be aware that when purchasing a puppy there are some simple guidelines you can follow to ensure that you are not purchasing from a Puppy Farmer:

1. Try to ensure you visit the puppy whilst it is still with its Mother.
2. Do not arrange to collect a puppy from any other location than that of the breeder.
3. Ensure that you are given any KC documentation, if pedigree. Whilst Midland News Association publications take great care to avoid publication of advertisements from Puppy Farmers we cannot accept any liability should readers purchase from this kind of establishment.

Fiesta matures from cheeky chappie into a serious adult

By Ian Donaldson

A couple of miles into the test drive I realised the car was humming quietly along the main road – in fourth gear.

If ever you needed a demonstration that the new Fiesta has matured into an even more serious player here it was, with two gears left to go.

At a stroke the best selling car in the UK for the last eight years has turned from cheeky chappie (but loads of fun) into a car that feels bigger and softer and not quite so keen to have a laugh with you.

That certainly applies to the likely biggest seller in the new range, the Zetec trim version with its 100 horsepower engine and – crucially – new six-speed gearbox instead of the previous five.

The Zetec – second up in a Fiesta pecking order stretching from 70 horsepower petrol £12,715 Style to 120 horsepower diesel £21,225 Vignale – is an instant charmer. More so on the inside than out, you'd have to say. The exterior of the latest Fiesta has grown very modestly and is completely restyled, although you might never guess.

That's as fine a compliment to the outgoing model as you could pay; don't mess with a look that's won thousands of sales. The result is a car with space to spare in the front – and a near perfect driving position – but just enough room in the rear for a couple of adults and a boot big enough for a family's supermarket shop but less generous than some of the competition.

The boot is big enough for a supermarket shop

Inside is where the attention needed to be paid, with the old car's dashboard looking increasingly like a relic from the past, littered with meanly sized displays and an excess of tiny buttons. All gone! Replaced in the modern minimalist fashion by a big iPad-like touchscreen that looks smart but doesn't have a lot to say for itself without a satellite navigation map on display (sat nav is standard on some dearer cars, a £300 option on others).

If the all-change interior is much needed step up, the engine choice is mostly as before, which is no bad thing if you enjoy the willing thrum of a three-cylinder petrol unit. Gone is the old and mildly asthmatic 1.25 litre engine, with most new Fiestas using versions of the established 1.0 litre three-cylinder unit in differing outputs – 100/125/140 horsepower and with CO2 readings from as low as 97g/km.

The old 1.5 litre diesel engine remains, in two power outputs (85/120 horsepower, from 82g/km), but will take less than one in ten sales.

The new six-speed manual gearbox will feature in the bulk of new Fiestas, which will have five doors too. Ford is sticking with a three-door option in a market increasingly ditching this choice on the grounds that not enough buyers bother these days to make it worthwhile.

The on-paper list price of most cars is an irrelevance these days and that's absolutely the case with the Fiesta, where 85 per cent of private buyers will opt for a personal contract plan (PCP) that provides a Zetec-spec car from £116 a month over three years and with a £5,000 deposit. That's an increase of £15 a month over the outgoing and a drive in the new one makes that look a sensible investment.

Tweaks to the suspension and clearly a lot of work on soundproofing have changed the Fiesta into a car that quietly soaks up bad British road surfaces, only objecting a little to the biggest bumps, and turning into corners with most of the eagerness of old.

Even with fourth gear standing in for sixth some of the time (blame that newfound quietness) the test drive showed 46mpg in a 100 horsepower version, which never felt underpowered.

If a tiny bit of the puppy dog spirit has gone you have to reckon the payback in refined progress is going to be welcomed by the majority of owners. And there are quicker, firmer ones on the way soon, don't forget.

The exterior of the latest Fiesta has grown very modestly

Volvo XC60 is generously equipped

By Ian Donaldson

The new XC60 replaces a model that found a special place in the heart of middle Englishers, who loved its solid feel, smart but no nonsense interior and the feel of ... Swedishness in a market saturated by rivals with German bonnet badges.

That Scandi vibe continues in the new XC60, with crisp lines outside and a cabin so conspicuously minimalist it only needs a log burner and sauna to complete the feel of a trendy Gothenburg bolt hole.

Priced from £37,205, it joined the Volvo range as a slightly smaller sibling for the notably chunky XC90, already regarded as a thoroughly sensible choice against rivals like the Range Rover Sport and Audi Q7.

This is where things get more complicated and might make some XC90 buyers wonder if they could save a bob or two and take this smaller newcomer, which starts at £11,450 less than the least expensive XC60.

The decision might come down to how many times you need to carry more than four passengers with you. Answer 'lots' and the answer is clear; only the big XC90 has a third row of seats, so no contest.

They require that the XC90 is longer than its smaller companion by a modest 20cms, or 10ins in old money. Both cars feel equally and notably wide on some British roads. But then consider that the smaller and five seat XC60 actually has more legroom in the second row seats and the temptation to save some cash becomes more compelling. Yes, the larger car will take more luggage with the third row of seats folded down but you'd never call the XC90's boot mean anyway.

Then there are the looks. Yes, the newer

There's plenty of legroom in the rear car has slightly different treatment at the front and across the back, with bolder looking treatments for the lights, and there are discreetly added contours along the side.

Barring a bit of applied trim titivation, the dashboard of both cars is identical. Which means it's businesslike and unobtrusively smart, with a big touchscreen in the middle dominating proceedings. Seats are clones too, making either car as adaptively comfortable as anything on the road today.

Up front, you will find similar engine choices too, with most sales bound to go to diesels, with Volvo's freshly minted all-electric future confined for the moment to an expensive (£57,950) Hybrid model. This combines a powerful petrol engine and modest battery which gives up to 28 miles of pure electric running and a tiny CO2 rating of 49g/km, which your accountant will love.

Most cars will use a 190 horsepower version of Volvo's 2.0 litre diesel engine (55.4mpg official average and 133g/km) with a more powerful model (235hp, 51.4mpg, 144g/km) as second biggest hitter. Power hungry

The lights are bold looking and there are discreetly added contours along the side owners will fancy the petrol T5 with its 254hp (39.2mpg 164g/km) or perhaps the range topper T8 Twin Engine hybrid with its extraordinary and unrealistic 134g official potential and nine per BIK rating. Expect lots of owners of their own companies to have one of these on the books.

All use an eight speed automatic gearbox and there is an air suspension alternative to conventional steel springing on some dearer versions. As ever with a Volvo the XC60 drops with safety kit, this time adding a system that will help you steer out of the path of an oncoming vehicle if you move dangerous out of your own lane.

Every XC60 has all-wheel drive and all of them have enough under the bonnet to feel at least decently brisk, from baseline D4 and its 8.4 seconds time to 62mph through to the 320 horsepower T8 Twin Engine and its stirring 5.3 seconds time helped with both petrol and electric power. Out on a varied test route with lots of town work and a famous Peak District pass road on the menu an entry level XC60 in Momentum trim proved easily capable of holding its own in cut and thrust traffic, its steel springs only rarely complaining on an especially chopped about surface. A trip readout of 38mpg at journey's end seemed about right, if some way from outstanding.

Whichever XC60 you steer towards, you will enjoy a car generously equipped with ownership appeal.

Lexus hybrid hatch features revised styling and simpler grade structure

Lexus has confirmed that its facelifted CT 200h hybrid hatchback will cost from £23,495.

The revised model features a number of minor styling tweaks for the 2018 model year, as well as a simplified grade structure.

Customers can now choose from six different trim levels – SE, SE Plus Pack, Luxury, F Sport, F Sport Premier Pack and Premier – with SE representing the entry-level specification.

Cars in this grade receive dual-zone air conditioning, 16-inch alloys, rain-sensing wipers and a seven-inch Lexus Media Display to name but a few features.

Sensors

The SE Plus Pack, which costs from £24,995, adds 17-inch alloys, rear parking sensors, satellite navigation and the Lexus Safety System.

The CT 200h Luxury benefits from smart entry, heated front seats, rear privacy glass and front and rear parking sensors, while F Sport models gain features such as sports styling elements, performance dampers and satellite navigation.

Prices for Luxury and F Sport models start at £25,995 and £26,995 respectively.

Opting for the F Sport Premier Pack will set customers back £31,245, but it will give them F Sport leather upholstery, a Mark Levinson surround sound system, Lexus Premium Navigation and smart keyless entry.

The CT 200h Premier specification also benefits from these features, and costs £30,495.

The Lexus CT hybrid has been refreshed and revitalised

The Lexus hatchback's powertrain is the same as before, with a 1.8-litre four-cylinder petrol engine paired with an electric motor.

With 134bhp on tap, the new CT 200h can sprint from 0-60mph in 10.1 seconds, and hit a top speed of 112mph.

The Japanese manufacturer claims the hybrid can achieve a fuel consumption figure of 74.3mpg on the combined cycle, and CO2 emissions of 88g/km.

Chika Kato, chief engineer for the CT 200h, commented: "The CT Hybrid has been refreshed and revitalised by enhancing its progressiveness. Its updated design is more emotional and sporty, making it the ideal premium hybrid compact car for younger customers who enjoy driving, but care about the environment."

Darley racers Moor the merrier for track success

MORE trophies and memorable rides proved a fitting finale for the region's top club riders as the curtain fell on another Darley Moor Motor Cycle Club campaign.

The final eight championships were all settled during round seven while a new 'Star' of Darley Moor was also crowned.

Burntwood ace Lloyd Shelley decided to step up and compete in the main races, having already claimed the Sound of Thunder and Formula 600 titles with a round to spare.

After some intense racing against British Superbike stars Ben Godfrey, Richard Cooper and Tom Fisher, the 33-year-old secured an impressive sixth in the opening race.

Riding a Triumph 675, he was also the fastest non-1000cc machine racer to cross the line.

Shelley then finished fifth in race two to secure overall fourth place for the 'Stars of Darley'.

Combined

Newly-crowned Pre Injection 600 champion Andrew Lowe, from Stone – who also finished third overall in the Pre Injection (Up to 1300cc) – took a start-to-finish victory in the combined Steel Framed 600/Pre Injection 600 race.

His win saw him claim the Jake Hingley Trophy in memory of a racer who began his career at Darley Moor in 1912 before his life was cut short following a crash at Cadwell Park two years later. Jake's father Neil was on hand to present the trophy to Lowe.

The success capped off another memorable year for the region's riders, which also saw Anthony Eades and Wolverhampton passenger Keith Box claim the sidecar title, Dudley's Mark Cockerton finish second in the Classic 350 class, and Willenhall's McCauley

"Thank you to the competitors that come back each week, putting on the show for the spectators."

Longmore third in the Formula 125 class. Wednesbury's Neil Lloyd, 47, was fourth in the Lightweight class having missed a few rounds due to road racing commitments. He said: "We're going to make a decision over the next few weeks as to whether we're running the Honda RVF next year or to change class and bike."

"Either way, we're putting an entry in for the Isle of Man's Manx GP, although I might be too old to enter now. Hopefully we can have a successful 2018."

Darley spokesman Brian George said: "The club wishes to thank all the spectators who attended, the majority of which stayed to the end, and those who have supported the club throughout the year."

"A huge thank you obviously goes out to the dedicated marshals and officials who have endured a wide variety of weather conditions this year and without who there would be no racing."

"And last, but definitely not least, thank you to the competitors that come back each week, putting on the show for the spectators."

The club's annual awards dinner will be held in Stoke-on Trent on February 3. Meanwhile, a new track proved no obstacle for Double Two Racing as the three-rider team pulled off their best result of the year – despite having already wrapped up the title – during the penultimate round.

After altering their usual pit stops for round nine of the No Limit endurance championship at Croft, in Yorkshire, the Black Country racers came first in the 600 class.

Pete Wright, from Tividale, and Blackheath's Martyn Siviter admitted it had been a 'cracking result'. They were inspired by one-time guest rider Scott Stevens – who they bumped into on the day and who had previously recorded fast times around the track.

Wright said: "Scott, having tested at Croft two weeks previously, was already up to speed and his track tips were invaluable."

After qualifying a season high third on the grid, Siviter started the race for the first time since suffering a monster crash at Donington.

Fitness

"We knew we would likely drop a few places but we decided to change things up a little with the title already won," said Wright. "The first pit stop was scheduled for 50 minutes mainly to avoid the usual 45-minute melee."

"Mart got a great start back to full fitness and as he pulled down pit lane we sat second in class and a brilliant eighth overall."

After a faultless pit stop Wright was sent on his way, 36 seconds behind Club 600 leaders Track Prep, before handing back to Siviter for the final push. At the chequered flag, the team had finished first in class, fourth in National 600 and sixth overall.

Double Two Racing were also back in action at Donington Park for the final time and ensured they signed off with 100 per cent podium finishing record after finishing third.

Over the top action to see champ crowned

THE first WPW champion will be crowned when Wulfrun Pro Wrestling returns to Wolverhampton next weekend.

A night of heavy hitting, body slamming action is on the cards at Penn URC Community Hall, Penn Road, on Saturday November 4.

Four Wrestlers will compete in a one-night tournament to decide the champion. Jessie Jones, 'The Bouncer' and 'The Judge' have already qualified as the result of matches over 2017 and the fourth will be the winner of an over the top rope Battle Royal that will start the show.

Fans will also see the latest chapter in the WPW Women's Division as Millie McKenzie and Shauna Shay take on the duo of Nightshade and Evelyn. Tickets cost £6 or £20 for a party of four. Refreshments and merchandise are available and fans can also buy a backstage pass to meet the wrestlers and personalities afterwards for photos and autographs.

Doors open at 6pm for a 6.30pm start. Reserve seats via <https://www.facebook.com/wulfrunprowrestling/>

Coach on shortlist for top sporting award

A SPORTS coach from Dudley has been nominated for a top award. Rus Smith has been shortlisted for Coach Developer of the Year at the UK Coaching Awards – now in its 20th year.

Smith, who works for StreetGames, has worked tirelessly to develop coaches, staff and volunteers who are changing lives in some of the UK's most challenging and deprived communities. He has developed a support programme called 'Coach Mate Connector' that has been integrated into the work of StreetGames and delivered nationally, outside of the classroom.

Smith has offered his coach developing services to the FA and the Stourbridge League. He leads the development of trainers and coach developers in the Midlands for StreetGames, delivering to more than 1,000 learners in the last 12 months.

Following public nominations, finalists have been selected by a judging panel for 11 awards; eight for coaches and three in support of coaching. The showpiece annual event is on November 30 at The HAC, City of London.

Sponsors sought as athlete targets Euros

AN endurance sportsman is looking for sponsorship as he goes from strength to strength. Rob Kennard, of Kingswinford, a member of Black Country Triathletes, has been competing in duathlons for seven years after discovering a love for cycling and running.

This year has been his most successful to date, winning his age group at the Powerman Duathlon in Mallorca and more recently finishing first in age group at the Bedford Autodrome Duathlon – qualifying him for the 2018 European Duathlons in Ibiza.

Kennard finished the 10km run, 20km bike ride and a 5km run in 2:03:58, placing him 27th overall and first home in the 50-54 age group.

Age group athletes fund all their training, kit and race entry and Kennard would welcome sponsorship from any local company who could support him. His target for 2018 is to achieve an overall podium place at the European Championships. He will be start his training in full in the New Year. Hero Gould saves day in derby clash

Stourbridge 1 Halesowen 1
(5-4 after penalties)

GOALKEEPER Matt Gould was the penalty hero for Stourbridge as his two shootout saves gave the Glassboys the local bragging rights.

The keeper, making his 100th appearance in red and white, denied Lee Chilton and then, crucially, Enock Luc-Ekongo as Stourbridge won 5-4 on penalties in the Birmingham Senior Cup.

The visitors, who won 2-1 at the War Memorial Ground in the Evo-Stik Premier two weeks ago, were the better side in the first half. Chilton, returning to the Yeltz team weeks after leaving the club, had a wayward effort early on as Stourbridge struggled to keep possession.

Shrewsbury Town loanee John McAtee went close for Halesowen with a 25-yard free-kick before the Yeltz hit the woodwork in the 33rd minute.

The Glassboys kept the pressure on but Halesowen defended well until youngster Alex Cameron, introduced in the 70th minute by Stour boss Gary Hackett, fired in from the edge of the area in the 85th minute.

The Yeltz, however, showed their fighting spirit and McAtee equalised with two minutes to go, heading in Jordan Goddard's corner.

The tie went straight to penalties and the Glassboys held their nerve to win the second Number 9 Derby of the season.

Halesowen Town 4 Lancaster City 3

On-loan John McAtee struck twice to ease Halesowen further away from the bottom of the table in a seven-goal thriller.

Smash and grab as visitors too Shaw in front of goal

Stourbridge 0 Grantham 2

THE Glassboys suffered a third straight home defeat as Grantham completed a classic smash and grab raid to claim the Evo-Stik Premier Division points.

Two late goals from striker Lee Shaw were sufficient to seal victory for Grantham.

Shaw broke through twice in the opening two minutes, but his first effort was ruled offside while the second forced a fine save from Glassboys goalkeeper Matt Gould.

Stourbridge carved an opening of their own on six minutes, but Grantham keeper Kieran Preston rushed off his line to smother at the feet of new signing Luke Shearer.

Grantham appeared to step up gear after the break and Stourbridge had a let-off when a close range shot from Danny Meadows struck Gould and rebounded to safety.

Shaw eventually struck the decisive goal on 82 minutes and Andrew Wright grabbed a second deep into stoppage time.

Fast Dan hammers speedway rivals

Bewley on track to victory. Pic: Steve Feeney

HOT prospect Dan Bewley warmed up an autumn night with a superb triumph in the FAST Golden Hammer t Monmore Green on Monday night.

Bewley triumphed in a dramatic three-man run-off with former Heathen Max Clegg and Lakeside's Ben Morley. The three hurtled down the back straight three abreast and it looked odds against all three staying on through the turn. But in a breathtaking move it was Bewley, the 18-year-old Cumbrian, who hit the front and powered home to win from Clegg and Morley.

Cradley trio Joe Lawlor, Conor Dwyer and Luke Harris could not mount a title challenge, testament to the customary strong field assembled. The meeting also featured a rare father and son contest with Lee and Kean Dicken both in the field. Dad Lee won that one, 5-0 on the night. Scores: Dan Bewley 13, Max Clegg 13, Ben Morley 13, Ashley Morris 12, Broc Nicol 11, Jason Edwards 10, Luke Harris 9, Joe Lawlor 7, Chris Widman 7, Connor Coles 6, Lee Dicken 5, Bradley Andrews 5, Taylor Hampshire 3, Dan Greenwood 3, Conor Dwyer 3, Kean Dicken 0, James Chatten (res) did not ride, Stephen Whitehouse (res) did not ride. Run-off: Bewley, Clegg, Morley.

HALES LEARN HARD LESSON

Nuneaton 63 Old Halesonians 0

HALES first team lost out at Nuneaton 63-0 against a strong home side.

Hales stuck at the task but were outplayed in the latter stages. The second team lost narrowly 5-10 to Nuneaton seconds. The thirds and fourths had no fixtures.

Old Hales this season have set to define their future with a five-year plan to develop the club from grassroots as opposed to focussing on first team status alone.

So far the club have regrouped with great confidence and although competing at Midland Premier level is really challenging for the young sides, the coaching staff, management and players are united in the way forward.

Old Hales first team sit bottom of their league but there have been games where a win has definitely been achievable.

Injuries have also affected the early games but Hales continue to mould and play throughout the whole club as one in terms of focus, game plan and commitment.

Old Hales 2nds 5 Nuneaton 2nds 10

Due to injuries across the club it was a much changed second team that took the field for their league game against Nuneaton with a number of players being called up from the third team at short notice.

Despite playing up hill and into the wind in the first half Old Hales started brightly and put Nuneaton under pressure, however they conceded a number of penalties in quick succession that gave Nuneaton good territory and they crossed for the first try of the game to go 0-5 up.

Old Hales responded well and in conditions not suitable for expansive rugby the ball was kept tight with the forward and after a number of good carries scrum half George Eccles was able to snipe over from close range 5-5.

Back came Nuneaton who were using the elements in their favour well and they soon created an opportunity to score to retake the lead, 5-10.

Head over heels at hall of fame

Kristian Thomas inducted into the hall of fame

GYMNASTICS champion Kristian Thomas has spoken of his immense pride after being inducted into the British Gymnastics Hall of Fame – just days after announcing his retirement at the age of 28.

Thomas, who was born in Wolverhampton, trained at Halesowen's Earls Gym and now lives in Cannock, received a standing ovation at the British Gymnastics 2017 National Awards on Saturday. He became only the second athlete – and first male – to be inducted, following

Thomas in gymnastics action

Beth Tweddle in 2014. He said: "It is a great privilege. It is quite a prestigious award in British Gymnastics."

Thomas led the GB men's artistic team for over a decade and has taken multiple individual honours at World, European and Commonwealth Games. This included winning Olympic bronze with the British team at London 2012.

On his retirement, Thomas said: "Now is the time to try something new and hang up the guards."

Blizzard runs into gale on south coast

THE cross country season opened at the weekend for athletes from Dudley Kingswinford Running Club as the blue hoops travelled the short distance to Aldersley Stadium, Wolverhampton for the Midlands Cross Country Relays.

With the men running four legs of 6k and the ladies running over three legs but the same distance there were plenty of chances for the club's stalwarts to get their spikes dirty and get involved in the cross country experience before the league programme starts in a few weeks.

After a handful of late defections DK fielded two complete men's teams with the Senior Men finishing in 43rd place with Richard Jones going off first and finishing in 29.36, Simon Hughes ran 26.35, Stephen Parr 28.19 and Sergei Ljubovnikov in 28.53. The Men's Masters team of Dave Norman with a 25.47 leg, Mark Homer 26.04, Graham Wildgoose 28.03 and Andrew Weaver in 28.09 placed ninth. Single club runner, Russell Fox, was the DK Masters B team on his own and ran a 33.50 leg.

For the ladies, Sarah Cox ran 38.25 for the first leg, Susan Barley ran 38.20 and Jan Burbie brought the team home in 37.04.

Twenty four hours later, Simon Blizzard and Michael and Helen Williamson battled the double trials of Storm Brian and the 10-mile distance of the Great South Run, starting in Portsmouth and through the naval dockyards before finishing with a two miles straight along the sea front into the teeth of a gale.

Awards highlight best of youngsters

IT was a quiet weekend on the racing front for Black Country Triathletes but that still didn't stop some of the juniors celebrating their success from the season when they attended the West Midlands British Triathlon awards ceremony on Sunday.

Awards were presented for the West Midlands Junior Series 2017. Scarlett Williams won first place in the Tri Star 1 age group. Ben Lucas took first in the Tri Star 2 age group with Abi Hathaway 3rd and Lydia Silk took 3rd in the Youth category.

All juniors are now looking forward to the new season starting in March 2018.
